PASTOR CRITICIZES GRAND JURY

Eleven Boys Drown As Canoe Capsizes

CURRENT COMMENT

By Chester H. Rowell

IF SENATOR Borah is to make the World Court an issue in this campaign by going, as announced, into all the states where there is an election and campaigning against friend and foe alike, provided they voted with the President and the enormous majority of Congress on this question, let us hope that he will at least render the service of injecting some truth into a discussion which has so far been characterized chiefly by misrepresentation.

• • •

AS AN honest and informed man, then, who respects the intelligence of his hearers, here are some of the things Senator Borah will not say:

He will not say that the World Court could decide upon American tariff, immigration or other domestic laws. He has read the statute of the Court and knows that it is forbidden to decide on these questions, as to any nation. He has also read the terms of American acceptance, and knows that no question whatever, involving America, can be submitted to the court unless our government, at that time, by vote, decides to submit that particular question.

• • •

HE WILL also not say that the Court could call on America to furnish troops to enforce its decision, or call on other nations to use force to impose its decisions on America. He knows that the Court has no power whatever to enforce its decisions on anyone; that, like treaties and all other international obligations, they are enforced only by the honor and self-respect of nations. He knows that if there is any hypothetical reserved power of enforcement, it is lodged, not in the Court, but in the League of Nations, and applies, if at all, only to the members of that League. At any rate, whatever obligations there may be, among the League members, to it and to each other, he knows that America is expressly exempt from that membership by the very terms of its adherence, which must be separately accepted by each of the other nations. And as to the bugaboo that the League nations might make war on us, to enforce their will on us—they could do that now, if they were rash enough, and will acquire no additional authority to do so by American membership in the Court.

• • •

HE WILL not say that European nations will appeal to the Court to cancel their debts to us. He knows that they can not make such an appeal, without our consent; and that, even if they could, the case would go instantly and unanimously against them. All the arguments against paying their debts are political considerations which no court could consider. A court can consider only the documents and the law. The nations owe us the money, and have signed an obligation to pay it. That, in a court, is the whole case. If they want mitigation, they will have to seek it somewhere else than in court.

• • •

HE WILL also not be demagogic enough to appeal to prejudice by reading the strange-sounding "foreign" names of the majority of the judges. He knows that in any international tribunal, most or all of its members must of necessity be "foreign" to the parties at issue. Would America submit a fisheries dispute with Britain to a board composed all of British members? Neither will another nation submit an issue with America to a board composed all of American judges. We have been members of The Hague tribunal for twenty-five years, and have had numerous cases before it. All the judges, in all those cases, were foreigners. We have also had many cases before special arbitration tribunals, all of whose members were foreigners. "Would America submit a case involving American rights to a court composed of foreign judges?" America, in the last 150 years, has already done so 70 times. With this court, even after we are members of it, we do not have to submit any case unless we then choose; but, if we do submit it, the "foreignness" of the judges is no worse objection than it was to every other case we have ever had, and it is an inevitable and proper feature of any international adjudication.

• • •

FINALLY, Senator Borah will not say that these judges are under the "dictation," either of the League, or of the governments of their own countries. He has read the statutes of the Court, and knows that the judges are completely independent. He has read the decisions of the court, and knows that it has refused the requests of the League for opinions, and that its individual judges have voted against their own countries.

• • •

WHATEVER else Senator Borah may say, it will be a real contribution not to say these things.

SURVIVORS TELL TALE OF HEROISM

Youths Cling All Night to Craft, Dropping Off One By One from Exhaustion

THREE MAKE SACRIFICE

Vain Struggle to Paddle Boat Ashore Ends As It Washes Onto Island

(By United Press)

TORONTO, Ont., July 22. — Eleven young men and boys drowned when a canoe capsized Tuesday night in the middle of Balsam lake after they had clung to the upturned canoe until exhausted, and dropped off, one by one.

The story of the tragedy and the heroism of some of the boys was told today when the four survivors of the party of 15 reached Long Point Summer Camp 17 hours after the accident.

The party was in a big Indian war canoe, which capsized during a squall. All managed to cling to the upturned craft and tried to paddle toward shore with their hands.

They were making little progress and the leader of the party, A. R. Shea-Butcher, 26, deliberately sacrificed himself.

"I'll make one less, fellows," he shouted and dropped off into the water.

The boys ranged in age from six to 16 years of age.

They were paddling well out into the lake when the sudden storm blew up. In the inky blackness a gust of wind overturned the canoe and they were struggling in the water.

Shea-Butcher, who was handicaped by a broken knee cap, from which he was recuperating, aided those he could reach to get to the overturned canoe. The boys could make no progress propelling it towards shore.

It was then that Shea-Butcher made his supreme sacrifice, dropping off to his death.

All night the survivors clung to the canoe, but cold and weariness overcame them and they began dropping off.

William Widdington, one of the four saved, watched his brother, Jack, 16, drop off into the water in the early hours of Wednesday morning, powerless to help him.

The sacrifice of two other boys was told by Widdington.

"They saw that there were too many on the canoe and as they were the best swimmers, they let go and took a chance on swimming to shore," he said. "We never saw them again."

The four survivors held to the craft until almost daylight, when it was blown to a small island. They righted it and paddled back to camp.

TROOPS MAY TAKE CHARGE OF CANTON

CANTON, O., July 22.—Two companies of Ohio National Guards were prepared today to enforce martial law here in case Gov. Vic Dohaney considers such a measure necessary.

If an attempt is made to carry out threats of further assassinations, the governor is said to favor a movement for direct action. His investigators have been here as observers since the murder, last Friday, of Don R. Mellett, editor of the Canton Daily News.

Five suspects were jailed and questioned by police last night.

On the invitation of Chief of Police S. A. Lengel, Ora Slater, detective in charge of the county investigation, participated in the questioning.

Texas Pastor to Preach on Killing

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 22.—The Rev. J. Frank Norris, Baptist minister, who Saturday shot and killed D. E. Chipps, today was prepared to go before the people with his story.

As a grand jury probed the fatal shooting which occurred in the little study of the Baptist church, Norris was preparing his first public speech in defense of his act. This will be in the form of his next Sunday sermon.

"The inalienable right of self defense," was marked on the church bulletin board as the topic which Norris will use Sunday and it is significant as Norris claims he killed Chipps to protect his own life."

GRANGE'S NAME IN DIVORCE CASE IS SHOCK TO WHEATON

Poolroom Boys Have Plenty To Say About Red's Fancy Garb

WHEATON, Ill., July 22.—Red Grange still is an idol in his own home town, but the Wheaton citizens, who used to see him carry ice around on his shoulders in the summer months and then race over college gridirons with a football in the autumn months, got quite a start when Red returned home from his Hollywood engagement.

"Red" was garbed almost too stylishly to be the same "Red" they used to know and cheer for. The boys around the poolroom had plenty to say about the "tropic" headgear and fancy tweed suit that "Red" was wearing.

But most of all, Wheaton was shocked by the report from Los Angeles that "Red" had been named in a divorce case and by the fact that "Red" admitted knowing the principals.

CONVENTION LIONS ARE PLEASURE BENT

SAN FRANCISCO, July 22. — Business on the second day's program of the tenth annual convention of Lions International was reduced to a minimum. Pleasure bent, 10,000 Lions, with an additional thousand or so wives and daughters were out to "do" the bay region.

The convention was welcomed to San Francisco by Mayor James Rolph jr., Carl Crosson, of Seattle, responding, speaking briefly to clear the way for the president's address. Benjamin F. Jones, Newark, N. J., international president, said, in part:

"It has been my privilege to meet Lions all over this continent, to have contact with Lions from Maine to California, from the northernmost limits of Canada to the Gulf of Mexico. Each section has its own particular problems, but through all, like a melody sounding above discord, runs a longing and a desire to reach out for better things."

Kidnap Inmates Of Texas Prison

HOUSTON, Tex., July 22.—Two automobile loads of armed men drove up to the Ferguson prison farm, 25 miles from Huntsville today, shot and killed prison guard William Rader, 50, and kidnaped six white prisoners.

The jail delivery was staged in the early morning hours when only Rader was on guard in the prison barracks. All the other guards were asleep at the time.

Heavily armed posses in automobiles are pursuing the fleeing machines, but roads made heavy from constant rains are hindering them, Warden Speer reports.

Two Killed In Venice by Plane

VENICE, Calif., July 22.—An inquest will be held here tomorrow into the death of Madeline Kupfer and Letitia Normandin, Los Angeles, killed in an airplane crash at the beach.

Carroll B. Crossman, pilot of the plane which also injured Jimmy Lyon when it crashed into the surf crowd, was held in Los Angeles on a charge of suspicion of manslaughter pending outcome of the inquest.

Alfred Hall, Ponca City, Oklahoma, Indian, his passenger, was held as a material witness.

Corum, an Artesia farmer, told Superior Court Judge Hollzer that for more than 20 years his wife had refused to kiss him because his whiskers were too "stiff"

When he shaved them off recently, Mrs. Corum's attitude remained the same, the farmer testified. The divorce was granted.

CROWN PRINCE OF SWEDEN IS GUEST OF L. A.

LOS ANGELES, July 22.—Sweden's Crown Prince, Gustavus Adolphus, and the Crown Princess Louise, like all distinguished visitors to Southern California, are going to shake hands with the screen stars and see movies in the making.

The Prince is very enthusiastic about a tour of the studios which has been arranged for him and his royal party, for tomorrow. "I am very interested in the films," he said. "So many of the pictures we see in Sweden are American-made."

His Royal Highness came to Los Angeles today. A lavish welcome was arranged, including an official reception at the city hall, and tonight the royal visitors will be guests of honor at a chamber of commerce banquet, for which nearly 1000 reservations have been made.

The Prince likes Los Angeles and he is curious about the population here. "By the way, how many people are there in Los Angeles?" he asked. A chamber of commerce representative replied: 1,200,000.

"Ah, but I must remember that when I am in San Francisco," he said.

Governor Friend W. Richardson, Arthur S. Bent, president of the chamber of commerce and other public officials will toast the Prince at tonight's banquet, at the Biltmore hotel. He will respond with an address which will be broadcast over a local station at 9 p. m.

Bethlehem Steel Cuts Dividend

NEW YORK, July 22—The directors of the Bethlehem corporation today announced that the company's stock earned preferred dividend of $2.04 a common share in the second quarter of this year against $2.67 in the same quarter of 1925.

Net income was $5,348,023 after deductions for interest and like charges, against $3,423,191 in the second quarter of 1925.

Reduction of $11,000,000 seven per cent marine equipment trust certificates caused the lower earned dividend this year, President Grace said in a statement.

100,000 Cases Liquor Seized

WASHINGTON, July 22.—One hundred thousand cases of liquor destined for thirsty Americans during the warm months, have been seized by the coast guard so far this year, Lieutenant Commander Stephen Yeandle, supervising officer of the federal dry navy, said today.

Rum runners, spurred by prospects of huge profits, swarm off the coasts waiting opportunity to land contraband cargoes, he said. Approximately one out of every five rum ships eludes the coast guard blockade and lands its liquor, it was estimated.

Frenchmen Jeer Yankee Tourists

PARIS, July 22.—Americans were subjected to jeers, cat calls and an attempted attack when a sight seeing automobile carrying a crowd of tourists seeing midnight Paris passed through mobs staging a demonstration on the cabinet and financial crisis before the chamber of deputies last night.

Crossing the Concorde bridge, the automobile became the center of attention the moment it entered the street before the chamber. Crowds gathered about the car, hooting and hissing the party of foreign tourists which included many Americans.

SLAIN MAN'S BODY WILL BE EXHUMED

Authorities Will Attempt To Determine Manner in Which Victim Met Death

CONTINUE DEWEY HUNT

Salt Lake Chief of Police Asserts Priest Accused Of Crime Is Ex-Convict

THE BODY of Joseph J. Patterson, which was found in the Santa Ana canyon on March 22, and for whose murder, the Rev. Philip A. Goodwin, is being held without bail, in New York City, will be disinterred from the potter's cemetery at Anaheim, late today and taken to Los Angeles for complete examination, in an effort to determine the cause of death, the district attorney's office announced today.

At the same ume, Sheriff Sam Jernigan today announced that he would send Orla Moncrief, chief jailer, to New York City, probably tomorrow, to bring Goodwin back to Orange county for trial.

Jernigan received a telegram today from Chief of Police Burbidge, of Salt Lake City, Utah, to the effect that Goodwin was an ex-convict, having served a term in the Utah State penitentiary, having been sent up after he is alleged to have purloined a number of precious stones from Salt Lake City residents, whom he made believe that he could "charm" the jewels.

Known In Salt Lake

Information from Salt Lake City today was to the effect that Goodwin was well known there, having had a short spectacular career there in 1918.

He went to Salt Lake City, it was said, in the fall of 1918 to take part in a charity bazaar in charge of the fortune telling booth. He was a success in that role and is said to have carried it so far that he made a number of women believe that he could charm their jewels. In this manner many jewels came into his possession and it was later learned, according to the report, that he had substituted fake jewels in their place.

He was admitted to the state penitentiary on October 27, 1921, and was released in August, 1922, according to the report. After serving his term in Utah, Goodwin is alleged to have left Utah and has not since been heard of there.

To Examine Body

Because it is necessary to know how Patterson met his death, the Seale Funeral directors of Fullerton were today instructed to dig up the body of Patterson for a strict examination.

The body will be taken to the Los Angeles county morgue for an X-ray examination, to determine if there is any lead in the body, in an attempt to prove Patterson was shot.

At the time the body was found, it was in such a state of decomposition that investigators were unable to say how the man had died. The district attorney's office here is of the opinion that Patterson came to his death from strangulation, C. N. Mozley, deputy district attorney, said today.

In the meantime, A. P. Nelson, district attorney, is completing the drawing up of extradition papers on which to return Goodwin to Santa Ana for trial.

Goodwin is scheduled to come up in court in New York on July 27 and word must reach New York authorities as to what local authorities expect to do, before that time, it was said.

No indication as to whether Governor Friend W. Richardson, now vacationing at Long Beach, would sign the necessary papers needed to bring Goodwin back here, has been made.

Search for Dewey

In the meantime, search for Abe Dewey, Utah cowboy, also wanted in connection with the murder of Patterson, is being carried on by Southern California officers. No trace of the man has been found, it was said.

Dewey is also known as Albert Gaines, who was said to live at 1915 Grant avenue, Ogden, Utah, the sheriff said. Officers in Ogden have been notified that the man is wanted here and have reported that they are searching for him.

Dewey, or Gaines, is known to have been friendly with Patterson and Goodwin, in Los Angeles, just prior to the time when Patterson disappeared from a rooming house in Los Angeles and just before Goodwin suddenly left the house and Patterson's body was found.

Information was received here today from Los Angeles to the effect that Goodwin was known to have been in Santa Ana on March 14, the day that Patterson was last seen alive, it was said. Officers here are checking on this report.

DRY AGENT IN SAN FRANCISCO IS UNDER FIRE

(By United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, July 22. — Indictments charging Col. Ned M. Green, federal prohibition administrator for northern California and Nevada, with criminal negligence, misconduct and appropriation of seized liquors to his own use will be brought next Monday from the federal grand jury, according to reports confirmed today.

Twenty or more witnesses will be subpoenaed.

They will include prohibition agents, government intelligence unit operatives and employes of the hotel where Green lives.

Colonel Green, the unexpected report of the investigation coming as a bombshell, denied the charges categorically and declared he welcomed an investigation.

The charges, developed as the climax of weeks of investigation by special government operatives and United States Attorney George Hatfield were reputed to embrace accusations that Green employed the official automobile with its chauffeur to transport himself, his friends and misappropriated liquor on "parties" in San Francisco and down the peninsula.

Colonel Green intimated that he believed the investigation an "attempted frameup." He scathingly criticized government agents who, he charged, had "sneaked" behind his back.

The charges will be laid before the grand jury by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant United States attorney general, according to reports unofficially confirmed. Mrs. Willebrandt arrived last Sunday from Washington.

Colonel Green was named prohibition administrator for Northern California and Nevada September 4 of last year, succeeding Samuel Rutter, and assumed office September 24.

POINCARE ENDEAVORS TO SAVE FRANCE

PARIS, July 22.—Raymond Poincare, war time president of France, today sought to form a coalition cabinet to lead France safely through her greatest post war crisis.

The financial Verdun began last week with the resignation of the Briand government and last night Edouard Herriot, premier for 48 exciting hours, was voted out of office following revelations that the government treasury was almost depleted and that the bank of France could not extend further credit to the government without legislative authorization.

Despite the defeat and resignation of the government, Minister of Finance De Monzie adopted the unusual procedure of demanding approval of portions of his financial project, explaining that the condition of the treasury demanded instant relief.

By a mere raising of hands, the deputies authorized the Bank of France to place at the government's disposal the remainder of the $100,000,000 Morgan loan, and ordered further increase in the maximum issue of bank notes. The remaining Morgan fund will be used to meet current expenses of the government.

Poincare visited President Doumergue at the Elysee palace this afternoon and upon leaving said he was continuing consultations, but that "the cabinet will not be ready this evening."

British Editors Realizing Newspaper Attack Has Gone Too Far

By ED. L. KEEN
General European Manager United Press Associations.

LONDON, July 22.—There is a marked difference today in the attitude of Britishers and Frenchmen toward Americans.

Whereas Americans in France have been subjected to insults and attacks during the last few days, there has not been a single instance of this sort in Britain, although the British public apparently feels as strongly as the French against the war debt attitude of the American government.

King George and Queen Mary this afternoon were hosts at the largest garden party in the history of Buckingham palace, to which 15,000 guests were invited, among whom were several hundred American residents and visitors.

Attack Gone too Far

British editors are beginning to see that the newspapers campaign against the United States, especially the Daily Mail's bitter attack, has gone beyond proper bounds.

J. A. Spender, editor of the Westminster Gazette, in a signed editorial today, soundly berated the Daily Mail.

"Newspaper stunts such as it has been conducting," wrote Spender, "are worse than useless. For it to say that 'the menace of the vast war debts owed to the United States is at the bottom of almost all the troubles in Europe, and to call down wrath upon American Shylocks lessens any chance there may be that the United States will play a helpful part. Our part is to rebuild the bridge between Europe and America and to remain on watch for every favorable opportunity of doing so."

Tones Down Comment

Even Lord Rothermere, proprietor of the Daily Mail, evidently realizes that he went too far, for besides toning down comment, today's Daily Mail contains reasonably fair dispatches from America, presenting both sides of the controversy.

Meanwhile, it is difficult for American observers here to discover an adequate reason for anti-American agitation, because France has not yet paid America anything and England has not paid enough, actually, to pinch the ordinary taxpayer or to cramp the usual government expenditures. For instance, the house of commons last night passed the budget providing for an expenditure of $212,500,000 on the army; $290,5000,000 on the navy, and $80,000,000 on the royal air force. The naval appropriation includes a provision for new naval construction to cost $45,415,000, comprising two class "A" cruisers, one class "B" cruiser and six submarines.

BOB SHULER ASKS FACTS ABOUT AIMEE

Trinity Methodist Church Head in Los Angeles Will Hold Mass Meet Sunday

WANTS TEMPLE PROBED

United States Attorney Is Not Inclined to Take Case Before Federal Jurymen

LOS ANGELES, July 22.—Rev. R. P. Shuler, pastor of the Trinity Methodist church here, charged in an open letter today that Los Angeles county authorities had "suppressed the facts" in their investigation of the Aimee Semple McPherson kidnaping mystery.

Rev. Shuler's communication was addressed jointly to Superior Judge Arthur Keetch and District Attorney Asa Keyes, inviting these officials to attend a mass-meeting at his church and "give the reasons for failure of the grand jury to indict the alleged kidnapers of Mrs. McPherson, after three weeks' of investigation."

The militant preacher said a formal protest would be made by himself and his congregation of 3500 persons, "against the suppression of any facts now known to the grand jury, or any evidence which has been produced before that body."

The grand jury dropped its inquiry into the McPherson case, without making a report, and without returning indictments against "known or unknown kidnapers" of Mrs. McPherson, announcing briefly that there was "insufficient evidence" to indicate there had been an abduction.

"The grand jury side-stepped the regular procedure in this case in order that the public might know why we dropped the investigation without handing down indictments," William H. Carter, foreman, explained.

Rev. Shuler also suggested that "an unbiased commission" be appointed to investigate Angelus Temple, the million-dollar tabernacle founded by Mrs. McPherson.

Unless new and important evidence which might lead to the indictment of Mrs. McPherson's alleged kidnapers is produced, the case will not be taken before the grand jury again, District Attorney Asa Keyes reiterated today.

U. S. Attorney Samuel McNabb, announced in behalf of federal officials, at the same time, that only evidence proving genuine the ransom letter received from "The Avengers" by Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of the evangelist, would prompt him to take the case before the federal grand jury.

This letter, received at Angelus Temple previous to Mrs. McPherson's reappearance in Agua Prieta, Mexico, five weeks after her supposed drowning, continued conclusive proof, authorities claim, that the evangelist was alive.

CALIFORNIA USURY LAW IS HELD VALID

LOS ANGELES, July 22.—California's "usury law" was upheld today when the district court of appeals here dismissed a writ attacking validity of the statute.

The appeal which the court refused to set aside had been filed by W. Washer, convicted of usury here recently and sentenced to six days in jail.

The decision, it was said, established a precedent, validating the state usury law which makes it a prison offense to charge more than 12 per cent a year on loans.

Washer was the first of more than a score of alleged usurers convicted during a long campaign against Los Angeles moneylenders by city prosecutors.

The decision of the high court was reached after study of a lengthy brief upholding the law, submitted by City Prosecutor Jack Friedlander.

Mrs. Fred Harvey Called by Death

SANTA FE, N. M., July 22 — Mrs. Josephine Blair Harvey, 59, wife of Fred Harvey, president of the Fred Harvey hotel and restaurant system, died here today following a stroke which she suffered Sunday.

Mrs. Harvey was en route to California to spend the summer. Members of her family were at her bedside when death came.

FOREST FIRES SITUATION IS NORMAL TODAY

SAN FRANCISCO, July 22.—The unceasing work of fire crews and the improvement of weather conditions today brought a change for the better in California's forest fire situation.

Particular relief was drawn from the fire weather forecast of district weather bureau headquarters in San Francisco.

"Grave" conditions of the past three days had changed to "normal."

"Continued fair weather in the interior, foggy on the coast. Normal temperatures, normal humidity and normal fire hazard," the forecast read.

Early reports from fire areas were encouraging. Several blazes remained partly unchecked but complete control was expected soon.

Several towns were menaced yesterday, according to reports received today.

The greatest damage occurred in and near Guinda, Yolo county, where 21 homes and a large section of grain and orchard lands were reported destroyed.

Residents fled in panic before the advancing fire and waited n apprehension while men returned to beat back the flames.

Grass Valley, Nevada county, and Jamestown, in Tuolumne county, were also reported menaced but were believed to be out of danger.

The forest service reported fires still burning in Klamath and Tahoe national forests. Fires in the Trinity forest were under control.

VALIDATION OF SEA WEDDINGS IS PROMISED

WASHINGTON, July 22.—The stir kicked up by the legal opinion of the shipping board that American skippers had no federal authority to perform marriage ceremonies at sea found a quick reaction Saturday on Capitol hill, where Representative Britten, Republican, Illinois, announced he would press for legislation validating beyond question all such previous marriages but preventing them in the future.

Commerce department officials backed up by the shipping board opinion by asserting that so far as federal authority goes, a stevedore had as much right to officiate at an ocean wedding as the captain of the Leviathan. However, it was pointed out, laws of the states where ships were documented might give the captains the legal power to satisfy the wishes of those desiring the romance of sea nuptials. As to the state laws, no information was available, and the department of justice observed a discreet reluctance to comment on the situation.

Britten objected to what he termed the "glamor" attached to sea weddings. "Movie actresses, limelight artists, and others fond of free advertising," he said, "may court the idea of marriage aboard ship, in balloons or in airplanes. Marriages performed under such circumstances have a touch of frivolity and I can see no need of them."

It was agreed that the actions of sea captains in performing such ceremonies was the outgrowth of an age-old custom. At the department of justice it was said no test of the validity of marriages under such circumstances had ever been made so far as known. In some quarters it was suggested that court action might be necessary to determine the question finally.

First Theater in Country Erected in Village of Old Dominion

It is strong on historical buildings and spots.

It has a "Washington's headquarters," of course. No self-respecting town in this section of the country is without one of those. It has a church which the old colonial governors used to attend, even before Washington's time. It has a venerable prison, where improvident individuals once were incarcerated for debt.

And it has the site on which formerly stood the first theater built in American.

This old theater burned down a long time ago, but Williamsburg is going to reconstruct it now.

Land Donated by College

William and Mary college donated the land. New York theatrical interests are going to put up at least part of the money. Williamsburgers who take price in their town's ancient associations, and the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce are backing the movement.

It will be an up-to-date theater and it will stand exactly where America's first theater stood.

Virginia was the American drama's cradle, anyway.

Up in New England, the colonists were too blue-nosed to stand for that kind of frivolity, but the Virginia contingent were cavaliers.

They produced plays even before they had a regular playhouse to produce them in. They did it informally but they were real plays. We know that, because we have a record of one, put on in Accomack county, across Chesapeake bay from Williamsburg, in 1665.

That was the first play there's any historical mention of in what is now the United States.

It was called "Ye Bare and Ye Cub."

Some Earl Carroll of the day appears to have been the producer, for they say it was a bit risque.

Performance for Court

At any rate, a complaint was made to the magistrates, who ordered all the actors and actresses to appear in costume—such costumes as they had—and give a performance that the bench might see and hear for itself whether it was improper or not.

To the complainant's disgust, the court like it. It dismissed his charge and made him pay the costs.

The historian saith not if there was a girl in a bathtub.

The Williamsburg theater was opened in 1716.

It belonged to William Levingston, a Williamsburg merchant, who, "on the side," taught dancing throughout King William county.

Levingston had two pupils, Charles and Mary Stagg, of whom he was particularly proud. He made up his mind they were too good for anything but a genuine theater.

So he built one, contracting to star Charles and Mary in it, and to bring additional performers, scenery and music "out of England."

Thus William Levingston became the first impresario on this continent.

He deserves this new theater, on the site of his original one, as a monument to him.

STATE TRAFFIC OFFICER HURT IN COLLISION

State Traffic Officer Frank Vaughn, Costa Mesa, was injured late yesterday afternoon when the motorcycle he was riding, crashed into a truck on South Main street, near the old sugar factory. He was not seriously hurt. The motorcycle was wrecked.

Charged with reckless driving, Raymond Dixon, 17, Santa Ana, was jailed soon after the accident. He was later released on his own recognizance, to appear before Justice Kenneth Morrison.

Vaughn said today that he was just riding up to arrest the boy for driving without having a license plate on a trailer, attached to the truck and for operating a machine without a driver's or chauffeur's license, when the youth suddenly turned to the left without giving a signal.

Dixon lives at 802 South Parton street.

Vaughn will be off duty for several days on account of injuries received in the crash.

Acid Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"
Better than Soda

Hereafter, instead of soda, take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent bottles, any drugstore.—Adv.

'SOUP' USED IN BLASTING OFF DOOR OF SAFE

The safe of the Fullerton Sanitary laundry, 225 West Santa Fe street, Fullerton, was blown early today by robbers who used nitroglycerine, according to a report made to the sheriff's office. A sum of $40 in cash was taken, but a number of checks for large amounts were left untouched.

Herman Zabel, finger print expert of the sheriff's office, said, after an investigation, that the job was that of professionals, who knew their work.

A mattress, taken from a couch in the woman's rest room of the laundry building, was packed around the safe door, deadening the sound of the explosion.

The safe door was blown off and bits of the mattress were found sticking to the glass panel in an office partition.

Entrance into the building was made through a rear window.

A. W. Clever, manager of the laundry, reported to police today that two suspicious characters entered the building yesterday afternoon and inquired about getting some special laundry work done, asking the price and when they could get it.

The men traveled in a blue roadster, it was said. Officers are seeking this machine.

Two persons, living in the vicinity of the laundry building, reported today that they had heard a muffled explosion at 2 a. m., today.

Deputy sheriffs, who investigated, said that they were not of the opinion that the robbers were the same that broke into the Home Oil company office in Anaheim Tuesday night, robbing the safe and till of $50.

PHYSICIANS AND CHAMBER OF COMMERCE DIRECTORS CONFER ON NEW HOSPITAL PROPOSAL

Declarations that the indigent poor of Orange county have, in Orange County hospital, better facilities for treatment than do those who are able to pay for such services in private hospitals, featured discussions, at the meeting, this morning, of the directors of the chamber of commerce, on a proposal to construct a hospital unit on the site of the county farm on the state highway to Anaheim.

A committee of doctors from the Orange County Medical association was present for a conference with the board on the matter of organizing plans for the erection of 100-bed hospital near the present county institution for operation as a general hospital. It was estimated that such a unit would cost $200,000.

The committee consisted of Drs. J. M. Burlew, J. I. Clark, J. L. Maroon, Santa Ana; H. D. Newkirk, Anaheim, and F. H. Gobar, Fullerton.

Proper Facilities Lacking

Presenting facts indicating that the sick of Orange county, who are able to pay their way, do not have proper hospital facilities, and directing attention to the point that a general hospital, located on the county farm grounds, would be acceptable to all communities in the county, the committee suggested the floating of a county bond issue for $200,000 for building and equipping such a plant.

Later discussions revealed that it might be possible for the board of supervisors to raise the amount through a special tax levy, which hardly would be noticed by the average taxpayer. The suggestion met with the approval of the physicians and the members of the board and Secretary George Raymer was authorized to issue a call to the directors of all chambers in the county to meet with the Santa Ana board and physicians of the county in the chapel in the county hospital on Friday, July 30, at 7 p. m., for discussion of the project.

Project Is Approved

It was asserted by the physicians present that the project of a general hospital in the location suggested had the unanimous approval of the county medical society.

The situation of Orange county being decidedly short of up-to-date hospitals was stressed and the possible service of a modern hospital to the general community of the county was emphasized by the doctors.

Discussing the possibility of the building and equipment expense being taken care of by two annual appropriations of $100,000 each, County Auditor W. C. Jerome, a member of the board of directors, pointed out that the expenses of the county have been reduced annually approximately half a million dollars for the last four years.

NEW ORLEANS STREET NAMES TELL HISTORY

NEW ORLEANS, July 22—Names of New Orleans streets present a mixture of French, Spanish and American influences of other days and impress strangers instantly as one of the oddest of the interesting features of the old city.

The city, itself, was not named as many think for the French city of Orleans, but for the duke of Orleans. Chartres street bears the name of his son, the Duc de Chartres. Royal street is said to have been named for Madame Royale, eldest sister of the king.

Bourbon bears the dynastic name and the Dauphine is remembered through Dauphine street. The royal family dit not lack attention as witness Conti, Toulouse, Dumaine and Conde.

A group of streets is named for the muses—Calliope, Clio, Erato, Thalia, Melpomene, Terpischore, Euterpe, Polymnia and Urania.

Few of the Indian names are left although one busy thoroughfare is still Tchoupitoulas. Americans are represented by Washington, Franklin, Adams, Jefferson, Monroe, Madison, Calhoun, General Taylor, Scott and Claiborne streets. Jackson square and Jackson avenue honor the hero of New Orleans.

Spanish governors also left their names on streets, Galvez, Miro, Calvo, Salcedo Carondolet and his wife, Baronne.

Names inspired by religion include St. Peter, St. Claude, Annunciation, St. Andrew, St. Mary, St. Maurice, St. Joseph and St. Anne.

When plantations were made into city streets, the names of children of old families were given, leaving today Octavia, Arabella, Joseph, Eleanore, Celeste, Robert, Adele and Amelia streets.

Court Notes

Trial Is Postponed

The scheduled trial of C. L. Wheatland and Mrs. W. J. Olds, charged with contributing to the delinquency of Mrs. Olds' minor children, today was postponed in Superior Judge E. J. Marks' court until September 27, at 9:30 a. m.

Appeal Is Filed

Roland Thompson, Santa Ana attorney, has filed an appeal in superior court from a recent decision by Justice K. E. Morrison, who denied Thompson's suit for $50 for professional services, filed against Herman Kolberg and Arthur H. Pease, of Orange. Attorney Clyde Payne, of Orange, represents Pease and Kolberg.

$17,521 Judgment Awarded

Superior Judge E. J. Marks yesterday awarded L. Boteler judgment for $17,521 against Sebastian Brothers, Anaheim firm, in a suit based upon a promissory note. The judgment included $16,615 principal, interest and attorney fees.

Seeks Commission

The claim of A. E. Hargrove, Anaheim realtor, for $1500 commission from C. U. Paxton, rancher, in connection with a real estate deal that was not completed, was being threshed out today before Superior Judge Z. B. West.

Hargrove's claim is based upon an alleged negotiation for the exchange of 20 acres at West Orange, belonging to Paxton, for a group of lots at Balboa Palisades, belonging to W. C. Steffens. He testified today that he had been engaged by Paxton as agent to arrange a sale or trade of the ranch property. After the exchange had been arranged for with Steffens, Paxton refused to make the deal, according to Hargrove.

Wife Asks Divorce

Basing her petition upon grounds of alleged desertion, Mrs. Daphne Hunting today had a suit on file in superior court for divorce from Walter L. Hunting. The couple was married in Santa Ana June 18, 1912, and separated June 1, 1925. They have two children, living with Mrs. Hunting.

Canada Case Suit Basis

A court judgment for $6870, granted in King's bench, judicial district of Moose Jaw, Can., last year, was made the basis of an action just filed in superior court here by Alfred H. Waye and Donald McPherson against Ruth Cull Smith. The plaintiffs are suing on behalf of the John A. McPherson estate, of which they are executors. They ask judgment for $6870 and interest, making a total of $7156.99. Attorneys Scarborough, Forgy and Reinhaus represent them.

'ACID THROWER' TO BE GIVEN COURT HEARING

Mrs. Aimee Jennings, 49, held in the Orange county hospital on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder, in connection with the throwing of nitric acid in the face of her husband, Samuel Jennings, Los Angeles candy salesman, at St. Ann's Inn, the night of July 13, is scheduled to be given a preliminary examination on the charge, this afternoon, in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court.

Mrs. Jennings is also charged with shooting at her husband with a small pistol, after she threw the acid on him, and breaking a water pitcher over his head.

Jennings is in the Santa Ana Valley hospital, where he has been since the night of the acid throwing. His vision is impaired and although he was today able to walk around the premises of the hospital, it is not thought he will be in the court room.

Mrs. Jennings attempted to commit suicide after the attempted murder of her husband, by drowning herself in a bathtub in the hotel. She was saved by police officers. A second attempt was made to take her own life Monday night, while in the county jail. She tied a tight cord around her neck in an attempt to strangle herself. She has been in the hospital since the last attempt.

Horse Lives Three Weeks In Treetop

SYDNEY, July 22—During heavy floods on the west coast of the South island of New Zealand, a race horse was washed into a tree, and was rescued more than three weeks later, still alive.

The owner, believing the horse to be drowned, was searching for the body when he found the live animal in the fork of a tree.

Apparently the horse had been swimming through the flood water towards land when it became entangled in the branches of the tree. When the waters receded it was unable to extricate itself. It lived on the leaves of the tree, and when found, there was no foliage within its reach.

The animal's rescue came too late. Despite careful attention, it died within a few hours.

Nails Included In Diet of Cow

KANSAS CITY, Kas., July 22.—A cow with a goat's appetite was found in a packing plant here when a Hereford was butchered.

Articles found in the cow's stomach included eight brass shotgun shell caps, 14 pistol cartridge shells, 10 wire nail, one wire staple, one piece of saw blade and scraps of brass, iron and steel.

The metal in the cow's stomach weighed one and a quarter pounds. The animal was in perfect health, and had been approved by a government inspector before sent to the slaughter house.

Attempt Made to Restore Buffalo

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 22.—Working on the theory that the open prairies may again be stocked with buffalo, the government is planning to move more than 2000 animals this season from the buffalo park at Wainwright to augment the herd placed in the north last summer.

The animals first are taken to Edmonton, then to Waterways and finally 300 miles down the Athabasca river on scows to the shores of Great Slave lake.

This is a total journey of 800 miles by train and boat.

Reporter Finds Plenty Of Politics to Write About

FLOW OF WATER IN SANTA ANA RIVER IS "DRAGGED IN"

Well, is politics warming up any?"

"Warming up? Oh boy! Nothing else but—"

Walking out into the Orange county political field and talking with the political daisies sprouting there now, one certainly does get some interesting slants on the different campaigns and after visiting the field, one knows about as little about the races as he did when he went in. Some daisies never tell!

Some of the daisies are growing as calmly as the beans out on the Irvine ranch, regardless of the fact that within the next six weeks a cyclone will come along and blow them over and leave most of them uprooted. Others are frantic. The least little gossip they hear throws them into a state of excitement and has them tearing their hair.

Woman Dog Lover Protests

Talking with one of the daisies yesterday, it was learned that there was a woman here who called up by telephone just to let him know she was against him because he favored having the dogs of the county vaccinated.

Another is worried to death because he's afraid another candidate will not come out in the same race and he's afraid to face the issue with only two in on it.

Another gets a report from the north end of the county that there is a certain family against him, and he can't keep from worrying over the fact that if one is against him maybe all the rest are.

Should Know Better

It's so easy to scare some people. And yet this candidate has made races before and should know better.

Another candidate is chuckling because a certain politician in the county is working for him and he didn't know it.

"Well, I was up in the north end the other day and there is a concentrated effort being made there to put me over, and they want me because they are so sure that I'm capable," one daisy reported.

"Well, it's a tough job beating a man in office and the man I have to beat is in now, but the people want a change and from reports I am getting, people are getting tired of seeing the same old faces in office all the time. I think I'll win," said another.

And the very daisy next to this one said: "The people of this county are satisfied with the work of the men now in office and believe me they'll keep us there because we have done the work they are paying us for."

Never Saw River Water

One candidate is mad because his opponent hasn't been in Orange county long enough to see water flowing in the Santa Ana river, he said, and another is running because he thinks his opponent has been paid by the county long enough.

This politics is a funny thing. If you really want to find out about a man, get him in politics. Get him to running for something and if he amounts to anything, then and there is the time to find it out.

There is one candidate running, who, when the campaign was young and he didn't know all he knows now, was a jolly fellow. Today, after weeks of work, the old smile is gone and he reminds you of a prize fighter going into the fifteenth round. His hair is mussed up and you can see in his face where he has taken a blow or two.

But not all are like that. Some take the blows with a continual smile and even after the ballots are counted, will be wearing that smile.

Any dirt throwing? No. So far, the campaign in virtually all of the races as been more or less clean, so far as can be seen, but the next few weeks may change this. When the racers start down the home stretch, gasping for breath, and red in the face, there may be a little mud throwing, and in fact, we are expecting a little here and there.

When the shoe pinches, as it will in some of the races, the man who has his foot in it is liable to squeal just a little, but there has been no sign of it so far in any of the races.

"But gossip, is there any gossip?"

Well, that's a different story. We have heard so much gossip about this and that candidate that we sometimes wonder if politicians ever get to heaven.

Lots of Smoke, No Fire

This candidate and that candidate have done things that are absolutely terrible, we hear, but the stories, so far, have not amounted to anything.

All in all, the daisies think there is going to be lots of fun on the last day of August, and although there is an old adage that "daisies won't tell," there are plenty of daisies in the Orange county political field that will tell you most anything you want to know, in exchange for a vote, and much of what they tell you is about the other daisy that has sprung up right beside it.

English Fashion Ruled by Prince

LONDON, July 22.—King George has never been able to oust his son, the Prince of Wales, as unofficial dictator of Englishmen's fashions.

Although many of the "old school" still carefully watch any changes that the king makes in his wardrobe, the youth of England copies, as nearly as possible, the styles dictated by what the prince wears.

The king still makes all of his public appearances with his trousers very neatly pressed at the sides. Bond street has long since given up its attempts to introduce the side crease. Several years ago the "man about town" did adopt the fashion for a short time, but it was not generally accepted by the public and consequently passed out as quietly as it had come in.

Norway Proposes Anti-Drunk Law

OSLO, July 22. — Norwegian temperance advocates are urging parliament to enact an "anti-drunkard" law, whereby the wives and children of men who spend too large a share of their earnings may find redress.

They are basing their demands upon the successful results of the operation of a similar law which has been in effect in Swoden for the last two years.

Under the law, they are seeking to establish, every town would have an officially appointed agent to the government to whom wives of drunkards could go for help and advice. The agent's first task is to try to persuade the husband to join a temperance union. Failing this, the agent has the power to order the offender sent to a special hospital for a "drink cure." If he refuses the cure, he is jailed.

Guest from Arkansas Is Made Honoree at Pretty Luncheon

MRS. Marie McCorkle of Hope, Ark., who is spending the summer in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ridley C. Smith of South Main street, was the incentive for a friendly affair which Miss Effie Douglas gave Tuesday afternoon at her home, 626 North Broadway.

Miss Douglas planned a charming little luncheon for which her guests assembled at 1 o'clock. The home was gay with summer flowers, small bowls of mixed blooms centering each table, where the delectable menu was served. Guests found their places by means of dainty cards repeating the flower motif, and which later served to designate partners for those who desired to play cards during the afternoon. The playing was quite informal and was varied by intervals of friendly chat.

Enjoying the afternoon with Miss Douglas and the opportunity of meeting her honor guest, Mrs. McCorkle, were Mrs. Z. T. Douglas, mother of the hostess who aided her in extending hospitality; Mrs. Ray Bunch, Mrs. Fred Conover, Mrs. Charles Swanner, Mrs. Lena Hewitt, Miss Pauline Reinhaus, Mrs. Ridley C. Smith and Mrs. Kate Felton Walton of Fullerton.

Dixie Lawn Fete Will Entertain Laguna July 24

The Dixie lawn party has been scheduled for July 24. It is to be held in the grounds of the Woman's club, and should be a colorful thing of beauty, with the great pepper trees hung with lanterns and the house blazing with lights.

This party is to be for the benefit of the lot fund of the club and should be patronized for this reason alone. But, when added to this, are the unusual features to be presented by Mrs. Edward M. DeAhna, the Dixie party becomes more than a duty; it becomes an evening's fun.

There are to be special dances by out of town performers; there are to be great stacks of Southern waffles and syrup, cooked by experts, and eaten with gusto.

There will be a Southern fortune teller of skill, the seventh daughter of a seventh daughter, who has been engaged for the occasion. And there will be many surprise features, of which Mrs. DeAhna is not speaking.

The party will be the first big social event to be sponsored by the new Board of Directors, and they plan to make it a huge success.

Business Women Will Enjoy Steak Bake

A steak bake at Orange County park is the festivity in store for Business and Professional Women next Monday night, in lieu of the noonday luncheon and program at St. Ann's Inn which will be cancelled for the day.

The July committee, Miss Lee Patton, Mrs. R. A. Cushman, Miss Mary Smart, Miss Mabel Weisman and Mrs. Olive Peeler, felt that an informal affair would be most popular for the midsummer months, and on last Monday, announced the park party. The committee will assume all responsibility for the steaks and their preparation together with the salads and accompanying dishes, and the members will need take only their own individual needs in table service.

Mrs. Laura Murray at the water office (telephone 9) has charge of transportation and those wishing to offer or ask room in automobiles are requested to get into communication with her.

Miss Louise Kaiser, president of the club, has announced her August program committee as follows: Miss Mary Aregood, Mrs. Caroline Barnett, Miss Helen Walker, Miss Gailene Finley and Miss Mabel McFadden.

Luncheon Is Given As P.-T. A. Benefit

Supervised playgrounds, sponsored by the P.-T. A., were benefitted by a pleasant party which Mrs. H. S. Hotz gave Tuesday, at her home, 812 West Bishop street, where summer flowers made an attractive setting for the prettily appointed luncheon tables.

Luncheon was followed by cards, 500 being the chosen game for the afternoon. Mrs. Frank Wasson held high score, Mrs. Anna New, second and Mrs. F. E. Summers, low. Each received an attractive prize.

Enjoying the afternoon in the Hotz home, were Mesdames Roy Langley, J. E. Walker, Frank Wasson, William Blodgett, Anna New, of Placentia, F. E. Summers, C. B. Henry, E. O. Fulsom, H. H. Ebell Dancing Pupils And Their Guests Have Gay Party

YOUNG PEOPLE of the McAdam School of Dancing who, for the spring and summer months have been enjoying the Ebell dancing classes, realized the delights of a party Tuesday night when, with their guests, they were entertained at the clubhouse in the peacock room, scene of many happy social affairs.

The evening opened with the usual dancing lesson for the pupils, and later with the arrival of the guests, the party was in full swing. To add to the interest was the program presented by talented pupils of Adeline Leona McAdam, head of the McAdam school.

Dainty little Miss Maxine Laughlin presented the first number on the program, "Pipes of Pan," with all the charm and grace of her seven years. Later she gave another interesting selection. Miss Elizabeth Owenstein of Long Beach made a very pretty Spanish senorita as she interpreted a native dance of Spain.

Presenting a historic conquest all unconsciously was the hornpipe given by Miss Bonnie McClure of Long Beach for it spoke of the early days of California, when the slow rythmic dances of Spain were superseded by the quickly moving steps of the northern races who invaded California.

Another Spanish dance was that of Miss Hazel Moore of Los Angeles. Miss Virginia Phillips, also of that city, delighted her audience with a dance entitled, "Classique." Miss Williams of Los Angeles was the accompanist. Miss Esther Walker of this city, pianist, and Stanton Daley, who played the traps, provided the music for the social dancing which followed.

During the evening delicious punch was served. Each one present was given a favor, either a paper cap or a whistle.

Ebell members who acted as patronesses during the evening were Mesdames Emrys D. White, Terry E. Stephenson, Angus J. Crookshank, Robert Northcross, S. W. Stanley, W. L. Deimling, Hugh Plumb, Cood Adams, E. S. Gilbert, Leonard G. Swales, Archie Herr, Norbert Lentz, G. J. Daley, Fay Spangler, Fred Parsons and William De Wolfe.

FRINGED SKIRTS OF PARIS ADD TO FEMININE GRACE AND CHARM

THE FRINGED GOWN THAT INDICATES A RETURN TO FEMININITY. LEFT, WHITE CHIFFON WITH FRINGE BOLERO STYLE; RIGHT, CANARY YELLOW UNTRIMMED EXCEPT FOR SELF-COLORED FRINGE.

The most popular trimming for evening dresses today is fringe. This extremely feminine type of adornment has completely conquered the heart of the Parisienne, and all the newest importations emphasize its effectiveness.

Fringe offers a practical solution of the silhouette problem. Undoubtedly women are tired of straight-line frocks, but they adore them.

In Paris as well as in New York there is an unwillingness to give up entirely the youthfulness of the straightline, no matter how eagerly godets, pleats and circular flounces are presented.

Keeps Line Straight

Fringe, used as Chanel and many of the French couturiers are using it, keeps the silhouette straight, but allows for all the motion and vibration of the circular hemline.

The photographs today show thre of Chanels most successful fringe frocks. A charming simplicity is achieved in the model showing the front view. Over a foundation of white chiffon deep fringe is arranged on the bodice in a line to follow the neckline so that it falls over the skirt bolero fashion completely concealing the waistline. The skirt is also completely covered with fringe in irregular lengths.

It requires no stretch of the imagination to see the wearer dancing—it suggests the ideal frock for the night club or the dance floor. Particularly do I like the classic simplicity of the neck and shoulder line. When so much emphasis is given to the skirt of a frock, the bodice should be correspondingly unadorned.

The fringed model you view from the side is of canary yellow chiffon—a color that is extremely smart now both here and abroad. It is untrimmed save for self colored fringe applied in three tiers from a deep crocheted heading, and long graceful tassels that hang from the shoulders, and tiny pin tucks on the bodice.

Here again, the entire play is given to the fringe. All fringe, however, is not silk. It may be of metallic threads, sequins or beads.

In the third costume is a fringe of pearls. The passementerei between the two rows of fringe is of silver lined beads which makes them glitter and glow against the white chiffon.

Trend Unmistakable

Two tabs, heavily beaded, hang from the waist to the hem of the skirt in the back. The color effect here is charmingly worked out. The frock is of white chiffon shading to cream, and the pearl fringe and silver lined passementerie touch it with exquisite shadings and sparkling traceries.

These three frocks show very definitely the trend of the Paris styles for evening. A suggestion of richness and an exotic quality is relieving the plainness of last season without disturbing the slender lines or youthful effects.

The return to feminine styles is practically affected. Certainly the trend is so unmistakably indicated that there can be no doubt whither we are drifting.

Past Matrons of Star Are Entertained by Their President

ENTERTAINED by their president, Mrs. nnie Peek, at her home, 525 Wellington avenue, members of the Past Matrons' association of Hermosa chapter, O. E. S. had a delightful party for their July session.

Business played a minor part in the program and was soon lapsed in favor of the entertainment planned by Mrs. Elizabeth Moore, chairman of the entertainment committee. The guests were divided into groups, each group to sing and enact the song given it, with a grand prize awaiting the best presentation. Mrs Waldine Lovett, a guest of the association and past matron of a Star chapter in Arizona, and her group, took the prize.

There were several guests to enjoy the happy afternoon and the delectable refreshments served by Mrs. Peek. Included in their number were Mrs. Genevieve Lacy, matron of Hermosa chapter; Mrs. Jeannette Terwilliger, matron of Alamitos chapter, Holtville; Mrs. Waldine Lovette, Arizona and Mrs. May T. Willits, Scepter chapter, Orange.

One of the pleasant features of the gathering and a surprise to the hostess, came when the guests sang a song, composed in her honor and complimenting her reign as president.

Avoid Poorly Balanced Breakfasts

That's Where the Great Dietary Mistake is Made

IF YOU feel tired, hungry, "fidgety" hours before lunch, don't jump to the conclusion of poor health. Thousands have unenergetic mornings because they start the day with wrong breakfasts.

To feel right, you must have a well-balanced, complete breakfast ration. At most other meals—lunch and dinner—you get it. But breakfast is a hurried meal, often badly chosen.

Thus Quaker Oats, containing 16% protein, food's great tissue builder, 58% carbohydrate, its great energy element, plus all-important vitamines and the "bulk" that makes laxatives seldom needed, is the dietetic urge of the world today.

It is food that "stands by" you through the morning. Don't deny yourself the natural stimulation this rich food offers you.

Get Quaker Oats today. Grocers have two kinds: Quick Quaker, which cooks in 3 to 5 minutes, and Quaker Oats.

CHEST BUDGETS TOTAL ABOUT SAME AS 1925

Running close to the totals submitted last year for operation expenses, are the amounts set forth in the 1927 budgets of participating agencies, now on file at the Community Chest headquarters, it was announced today by Roland E. Dye, secretary and campaign manager of the Community Chest of Santa Ana and Tustin.

Estimates of funds for the coming year have been received from the Boy Scouts, Y. M. C. A., American Red Cross and the Children's Home society. Budgets are to be submitted by the Y. W. C. A., the Salvation Army and the Veterans' Welfare society, it was announced.

It also was announced that application for admission to the chest has been received from the Crippled Children's Welfare Society of Orange county, a county-wide organization devoted to the care and treatment of crippled and malformed children. This application was accompanied by a budget, setting forth the needs of the association, requirements being based on proportionate basis to population to Santa Ana and Tustin.

Secretary Dye added that it is planned to hold a board meeting next week, when budgets and the application of the Crippled Children's Relief society will be considered. Following the meeting, budgets will be turned over to the budget committee, composed of W. V. Whitson, chairman; B. A. Crawford, O. H. Barr, A. C. Bowers and G. K. Scovel, for examination and recommendation.

PRESIDENT IS OFTEN IN DEBT TO HIS GUARDS

President Coolidge, as has been ofttimes recorded, carried little pocket money with him and on occasion has been forced to borrow trifling sums from the secret service men accompanying him for the purchase of newspapers, magazines, etc.

Those men who have financed these purchases, however, are beginning to suspect that the executive deliberately borrows nickels and dimes for the saks of practical and dimes for the sake of practical paying the loans.

Recently, the president was "in" to Dick Jervis, debonair chief of the White House secret service detail, to the extent of 25 cents, borrowed a nickel at a time. One morning Dick arrived at the White House shortly after 10 o'clock to be informed that from 8:30 on Mr. Coolidge had been inquiring for him at 15-minute intervals.

Such urgent and repeated summons worried Dick. Something of great moment must have happened, or some important matter was about to come up, he thought.

With fair amount of apprehension Jervis entered the president's office. Mr. Coolidge looked up solemnly from his work, thrust his hand into his pocket and pulled out a quarter and handed it to Dick, then continued with his work, not saying a word.

The incident worried Dick for some time until he remembered that he had bought the president papers and magazines on several of the nightly walks.

Another time, the president owed Arnold Landvoigt, also a secret service operative, 5 cents. Calculating Landvoigt's mental reaction to a nicety and probably laughing the while in his study, Mr. Coolidge dispatched an usher downstairs one night with a dime.

"Give it to Landvoigt," he instructed, "and tell him he may keep the change."

Landvoigt's efforts to get the usher to return the extra nickel were unavailing.

PLAINTIFF AWARDED DAMAGES OF $3250

Mrs. Roxanna Archer, who received injuries when run down by an automobile driven by Thomas Wright jr., in Tustin, was awarded $3250 damages against the youth and his father, Thomas Wright sr., by a jury which heard her $10,000 damage suit in Superior Judge E. J. Mark's court yesterday.

The jury was out from 3:37 p. m. until 7:50 p. m., in reaching its verdict. The defense was granted a stay of execution for 10 days, indicating plans for an appeal.

Attorneys Barbee and Varnum, of Long Beach, represents Mrs. Archer in the case, Clyde Bishop, of Santa Ana, being counsel for the Wrights.

WOMAN FAILS IN ATTEMPT TO TAKE OWN LIFE

Sitting in an expensive automobile near the waterfront on Third street, Seal Beach, yesterday afternoon, her throat slashed in several places, a woman, giving her name as Mrs. C. S. Smith, 45, wife of a wealthy Long Beach packer, was found by Seal Beach police, who rushed her to the Orange County hospital.

Today, physicians said that her condition was not serious.

A small razor, said to have been found in the machine near the woman, indicated that she had attempted suicide. This was borne out, it was said by officers, by the finding of a letter in the machine, addressed to Mrs. Smith and purported to have been written by her husband, notifying her that he had instigated divorce proceedings against her.

When the woman was brought to the hospital, physicians said that she was under the influence of some narcotic. She is to be taken to Los Angeles today, to be placed in a sanitarium for observation, they said.

Relatives of the woman visited the hospital today to make arrangements for her removal to Los Angeles and told physicians that she had attempted suicide before, by slashing her throat. That was in May, they said.

A woman, driving an automobile in which Mrs. Smith was seated, was arrested near San Juan Capistrano several weeks ago. She was fined $25 in Justice John Landell's court for speeding, the motor traffic office reported here today.

Mrs. Smith was extremely nervous when brought to the hospital, it was said, but her condition today was greatly improved.

Mrs. Smith gave her street address as 3717 East Second street, Long Beach.

AERIAL CAMERA IS SUCCESSFUL IN NIGHT WORK

DAYTON, O., July 22.—In event of another war, it would be possible, officers commanding the United States forces believe, to know with approximate exactitude any material movement of men, ships or airplanes by the enemy near enough in advance of the movement to completely forestall it, provided men and equipment were available.

The airplane and its vital and increasingly important adjunct, the aerial camera, have shattered and penetrated darkness, an army's greatest protection.

Practical perfection for military purposes was attained in night aerial photography, when Lt. George W. Goddard made successful photographs from a plane at a height of 1500 feet, using flash bombs and a special camera shutter synchronized with the flash.

These photographs have such detail as to see groups of people on the streets of Dayton, to note automobiles and street cars and to recognize downtown buildings. Aerial night photographs have been made before in which fair detail and definition were obtained in stationary objects, but moving objects were always streaks or smudges on the film.

In the pictures made by Lieutenant Goddard, in spite of the high speed of the ship, street lights show only minutely elongated with dots, and lights on moving street cars and automobiles do not make long white streaks through the pictures.

The flash bombs used in making the "shots" contain 30 pounds of flashlight powder each and are of different colors. Different colors are combined in certain proportions to overcome certain actinic conditions. Some flashes eliminate haze, others do not. Some bring out more detail than others. The best results, Lieutenant Goddard said, are obtained by using quick and intense flashes of colored powders, rather than longer flashes of white powder.

CIANFONI ASKS QUIET DURING BAND CONCERT

The management of the Santa Ana Municipal band today again appealed to those attending the weekly concert to be presented at 7:30 tonight in Birch park, to maintain quiet while the numbers on the program are being played.

"Between numbers, the boys can make all the noise they want to and men and women may talk all they please, but we do want them to keep as silent as possible during the presentation of a selection," D. C. Cianfoni, director, said.

The program will feature selections from light operas, composed by Arthur Seymour Sullivan and Reginald DeKoven. It will be as follows:

March, "More Fraternity," (Fillmore); overture, "Lustpiel" (Heler-Bela); waltz, "Jolly Fellows," (R. Vollstedt); soprano solo, "One Fine Day," (Puccini), Miss Agnes Davis, of Denver; selection, "Robin Hood," (R. DeKoven); celebrated serenade (Franz Drdla); selection, "H. M. S. Pinafore" (Sullivan); light opera mosaic, arranged by Cianfoni.

The director prepared the following brief sketch of the life of the two composers, to whom the program is dedicated:

Arthur Seymour Sullivan—Born in London, May 14, 1842; died, Nov. 22, 1900. Eminent composer of national English comic opera, also composer of church music. At 12 a chorister under Helmore in the Chapel Royal; at 13 published a song; the first Mendelssohn scholar in the Royal Academy of Music; studied also at Leipzig conservatory. At 18, conducted his overture, "Lalla Rookh"; at 20, produced music to "The Tempest;" at 22, he wrote a notable cantata, "Kenilworth;" was conductor of the London Philharmonic. From 1876 to 1881, he was principal and professor of composition in the National Training School for Music. He received the degree of music doctor in Cambridge, 1876, and in Oxford, 1879. Was made chevalier of the Legion of Honor in 1878. His chief contribution to music was his brilliant series of truly English comic operas, with the equally brilliant librettese of W. S. Gilbert. His operas are Patiente, Cox and Box, Le Precieuses Ridicules, Trial by Jury, H. M. S. Pinafore, The Pirate of Penzance, Iolanthe, The Mikado, Ruddigore, The Yoemen of the Guard, The Gondoliers, Utopia, Contrabandista, The Chieftain and The Emerald Isle.

Reginald De Koven—Born in Middleton, Conn., April 3, 1859; educated in Europe; took degree at Oxford, England, in 1879. Studied with W. Speidel, Nauff harmony and composition, taking singing with Vannuccini and operatic work with Genee. In 1902, organized and conducted The Philharmonic orchestra in Washington, D. C., where he has lived since 1900. His successful operas are Robin Hood, The Fencing Master, The Highwayman and the Maid Marian.

"Rails may be 30, 33 or 36 feet in length, depending on locality and other conditions. ORANGE COUNTY PRESS CLUB IS ROYALLY ENTERTAINED AT STEAK FEED IN HEWES PARK

Members of the Orange County Press club attended in large numbers, last night, the second meeting of the club, held in Hewes park, with Mr. and Mrs. D. Eyman Huff as host and hostess.

A count showed 114 to be present, among whom were editors, reporters and advertising men of virtually every one of the 20 Orange county newspapers. As special guests, Ben Read, executive secretary of the Southern California Editorial association; Lincoln Quarberg, of the United Press bureau, in Los Angeles, and Ralph Brown and W. E. Mountfort, of the Long Beach Press-Telegram, met with the Orange county newspapermen.

One of the factors that made for the meeting's success was the presence of the women, according to opinions voiced. Those present were unanimous in accepting the invitation of Huff to make the press club banquet in Hewes park an annual affair.

The invitation of W. O. Hart, of the Orange Daily News, to hold the next meeting in Orange, was accepted. Huff was asked to attend as a guest of honor.

Huge Steaks Served

The famous Huff hospitality was evidenced in the dinner. The half hour interval preceding its serving was spent by the guests in strolling by the great grills, where huge steaks, which had been ripening on ice for 15 days, were being broiled, dipped into a bowl of melted butter and placed in a great pan ready for serving, piping hot. With the steaks were served mealy baked potatoes, two sacks of which were required. Frijoles caliente were "caliente" indeed, with their spicy Spanish sauce, and the salad was something to dream about—great sliced of avocado with crisp lettuce and pimientoes, served with olives and stuffed celery. Then there were the toothsome hot rolls with just a dash of cinnamon, such as Wong, the Chinese cook at Hewes ranch, concocts to the queen's taste.

Nor must the rich milk from registered Jersey cows be forgotten, nor the amber coffee, nor the Anapauma cocktails, Mr. Huff's own mixture of Hewes ranch grapefruit juice and ginger ale, and named for the ranch house. The dinner ended with "Sweethearts," a delicious ice cream, smothered with strawberries, served in individual containers.

With Mr. and Mrs. Huff presiding over such a feast, which was served by a bevy of pretty young girls, it was small wonder that all were enthusiastic about the hospitality so lavishly dispensed. A unique feature was the distribution of French bouquets among the women by two cunning little maids, Fong Teng Tin, in quaint little Chinese costume, and Mary Helen Davis, in ruffled blue organdy. The men were served "seegars."

Host Is Introduced

In opening the after-dinner program, Horace Fine, of the Santa Ana Register, introduced the host, D. Eyman Huff, Huff expressed his pleasure in entertaining the press club and paid tribute to the journalists of the nation's newspapers for the way they faced the responsibility of "telling the news."

Jim Heffron, of the Anaheim Bulletin, made the response. He declared that "Orange county newspapers are classed among the best in the world" in assuming the duty of reflecting public sentiment. On his motion, a vote of thanks was extended to the host and hostess.

As president of the Press club, Sam Meyer, of the Newport News, presided over the program. A piano selection was played by Lincoln Quarberg of the United Press.

Eleanor Young Elliott, society editor of the Santa Ana Register gave a reading. A. W. Armstrong, of Seal Beach, rattled a lively rythm with a set of bones to an accompaniment by Quarberg. A Charleston dance was given by Frederick Elliott.

Editors Liked Southland

Enthusiastic comments on Orange county were brought back from the convention of the National Editorial association, held recently in Los Angeles, by Ben Read, secretary of the Southern California Editorial association.

"A kindly feeling was held by the editors toward Orange county," he said. "They had the time of their lives and ran out of adjectives in praising the Southland. The stories they sent to their home papers in the east ran to several column lengths, often on the first page. If we had tried before to buy an inch on their first pages for California publicity, we would have been thrown out. Orange county co-operated greatly in making the convention the greatest gathering in the history of the national association."

In the business session, Meyer explained that A. V. Douglas, of La Habra, on the committee for drawing up the constitution and by-laws, was not ready to report.

Brickbats or bouquets for the "good of the order" were called for by Meyers. The responses all were bouquets. Nothing of the spicy nature of the initial session over membership qualifications arose.

Starting it off, Horace Fine, retorting to accusations that he was a candidate for the office of county treasurer, admitted the charge and went further to explain why he had removed the fuzz on his upper lip.

Commend Club Spirit

Mountfort and Brown, of Long Beach, commended the spirit of the newspapermen in the press club.

Others who spoke were Floyd McCracken, of the Anaheim Bulletin; W. O. Hart, of the Orange Daily News; Frank Rospaw, Yorba Linda Star; Newland Shanks and Perry Maynard, Fullerton News-Tribune; Col. H. C. Honey, Placentia Courier; A. V. Douglas, La Habra Star; Robert Wilson, Anaheim Booster; Herman Reuter, Santa Ana Mirror, and Sam Rymer, Brea Progress.

The piano used for the musical program of the evening was furnished by the Rankin Dry Goods company, of Santa Ana, and was taken to Hewes Park through the courtesy of Stanley Clem, of the Santa Ana Lumber company.

EXTENSION OF ELECTRIC LINES IS DISCUSSED

A conference for the purpose of discussing the proposed extension of Pacific Electric lines from Fern to Corona, through the Santa Ana canyon; the extension of a Pacific Electric lines from Fullerton to Orange, and the electrification of the Southern Pacific railway tracks from Dyer to Newport Beach, was being held in Long Beach today, in the office of C. A. Bland, Long Beach transportation manager.

The conference today includes members of the chambers of commerce of practically every town which would be effected by the extension and electrification of the Pacific Electric lines, and Pacific Electric officials.

It is pointed out that the proposed extensions and changes will supply inland towns with direct car service to beach communities, and it is believed that with the co-operation of beach and inland towns action may be secured on the matter in the near future.

VISITORS WILL STUDY HEALTH METHODS HERE

Traveling on business connected with their official duties, T. G. Gabbart, Ventura, and M. H. Butcher, Santa Paula, supervisors of Ventura county, arrived here last night and registered at St. Ann's Inn. They are accompanied by A. K. Lovett, superintendent of engineering, of that county.

Gabbart and Butcher came here to secure first hand information regarding the operation of the Orange county health service, which, the visitors declared, is considered one of the most efficient in the state. They are particularly interested in the organization of the county health department, under which the county health officer and his assistants are serving as health officers of incorporated communities in the county.

According to Gabbart, the supervisors of Ventura county are planning the establishment of a county-wide health unit, to be modeled after the Orange county health department.

This morning, the visitors conferred with Orange county supervisors and various county officials, including Dr. A. N. Crain, deputy county health officer, who is in charge of the health service during the vacation of Dr. V. G. Presson.

FORMER SANTA ANA PASTOR TO PREACH HERE

A warm welcome will be extended the Rev. and Mrs. James A. Stevenson, of San Jose, upon their arrival in this city to spend a week end among warm friends of Dr. Stevenson's former pastorate, the First Presbyterian church.

As moderator of the California synod, Dr. Stevenson now is in attendance at the meeting in progress in Hollywood, and is scheduled to preach at the services at 7:30 tonight. He will occupy the pulpit in the church here at morning and evening services next Sunday and his friends and admirers are planning to tax the capacity of the church by their attendance at each service.

On Monday, Dr. and Mrs. Stevenson will leave for their old home in Pennsylvania and the popular pastor will preach in the church he attended as a lad. They expect to be gone the greater part of August.

KIWANIS CLUB HEARS REPORT ON CONVENTION

Virtually all clubs of Kiwanis International are making work among underprivileged children their major activity, according to a statement made yesterday by T. A. Winbigler in reporting to the Santa Ana club on the convention at Montreal in June.

Mr. and Mrs. Winbigler and Arthur Lyons attended the convention as representatives of the local club and Winbigler yesterday made the usual report for a delegate who attends the big assemblage each year.

Following the convention, Mr. and Mrs. Winbigler came home by easy stages stopping off for two and three days at a time at many of the larger cities in the east.

Makes Instructive Report.

The brief recital of features of the convention was instructive, the speaker having the faculty of putting out the meat of the big conference in a forceful and enlightening way.

He commented on many of the addresses and reports and emphasized particularly the address of Charles W. Adams, chairman of the classification committee, who warned against the creation of fictitious classifications in order to build up membership and who discouraged the organization of clubs in communities not large enough to successfully support a club.

1581 Clubs Represented

Indicating the interest in Kiwanis, Winbigler said 1581 of the 1602 clubs in the United States and Canada were represented. In the recent attendance contest, the California-Nevada district won first place, with a record of 84 1-2 per cent.

Mrs. Winbigler also added comments, speaking of some of the observations she made on the convention, and making particular reference to the responsibilities she had in acting as chaperone for her husband and Lyons.

Miss Agnes Davis, soprano soloist, here from Denver on a visit to her sister, delighted the Kiwanians with three vocal numbers.

NAPOLEON AND CHRIST VOTED GREATEST MEN

GENEVA, July 22.—Jesus Christ and Napoleon Bonaparte have been voted by members of the Young Men's Christian association in 50 countries as the greatest characters in history.

The same young men have voted Premier Mussolini of Italy and Henry Ford the two greatest men now living.

The vote was taken in questionnaires sent by the world committee of the Young Men's Christian association last year to members of the organization all over the world, as part of the preparations for the nineteenth world conference of the Y. M. C. A. to be held at Helsingfors, Finland, August 1 to 6.

Replies came back from 50 countries written in 22 languages.

In addition to naming the world's greatest men, the answers revealed a belief that patriotism holds a more prominent part in the mind of youth than religion.

The general opinion was expressed that there is no really Christian nation in the world at present.

Other outstanding figures of the past who received many votes were Alexander the Great, Sir Francis Drake, Pasteur, Abraham Lincoln and David Livingstone.

English boys frequently named Henry the Second, Wellington and and among the great men of the present many favored Douglas Fairbanks, Buster Keaton and Lon Chaney.

LON CHANEY THINKS HE'S NOT REALLY GREAT.

HOLLYWOOD, July 22.—Lon Chaney, the movie star, doesn't feel any greater because he was named as one of the greatest living men by a vote of Y. M. C. A. members in England.

Chaney was a runner-up in the voting by Y. M. C. A. members of 50 nations, who named Christ and Napoleon as the greatest characters of history, and Mussolini and Henry Ford the outstanding men of the present.

No Film Actor "Great"

"I am gratified by the vote, of course," said Chaney, "because it is very flattering to a screen actor to be named along with Christ, Napoleon, and Henry Ford.

"But I don't think for a minute that I, or any other film actor, deserves the title of a great man."

Chaney pointed out that fame in the films was fleeting, and that very few stars were remembered after they had retired from the profession.

"But not so with great scientists, authors and generals," he continued.

"As I construe the word great, it applies to one who has achieved some signal and lasting good for humanity. Great scientists like Metchnikoff or Pasteur, great leaders, authors or generals come under that classification.

Works Hard, Well Paid

"But I am just a hard-working fellow doing the best I can, getting well paid for it while I am doing it, and I am fraid I cannot class myself with men so much greater.

"However, I am very grateful to those who were kind enough to remember my efforts."

Drunk Fines Paid By Man, 2 Women

Two women and a man, charged with being drunk in Orange County park, each were fined $25 in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court yesterday.

They were A. G. Alwood and wife, Pearl, and Lucile Bruce, all of Long Beach.

The arrests were made by H. W. McKague, deputy sheriff. The fines were paid.

CHRISTIE GIVES SPECIFICATIONS FOR FILM GIRLS

HOLLYWOOD, July 22—The 1926 model girl will be short, slender and straight-lined, and not taller, with curves and dimples, as announced in Flo Ziegfeld's annual "specifications," according to Al Christie, veteran movie producer.

"Broadway may like them tall and dimpled, but Hollywood wants them petite and lithe, without any distressing curves," said Christie, who picks an annual crop of film Follies beauties for the comedies, just as Ziegfeld chooses his ideal types for the stage choruses.

"Ziegfeld admits that his type of girl tends to ruin her health by over-dieting and over-exercise. But the ideal movie girl does not have to undergo dangerous dieting to keep thin, and she doesn't lose any weight by staying up all hours of the night.

"The normal exercise of a movie girl keeps her figure at the right weight. She keeps the snuggly-looking kind of beauty which the film fans like to loo kit. And she doesn't have time to sit around a bridge table with a box of candy at one elbow and a chocolate parfait or a gin buck at the other.

"It is too bad if the women outside the films must take artificial means to secure the sylph-like figures which the movie girls have."

Sticks to Blonde Theory.

The 1926 movie model, according to Christie, is about five feet, one inch, in height, and weighs just 100 pounds. Sometimes she is brunette, but usually blonde. Ziegfeld said the blondes were passe.

Above all, she will not be tall, but just short and light-weight—"the kind of cuddly-looking little charmer that any gentleman prefers at first sight," according to Christie.

"I have always suspected that Flo Ziegfeld picked a flock of tall girls for his chorus so the customers back in the last rows could see them," concluded the movie man.

"Now he wants them with curves and dimples, probably to draw the customers' eyes from their faces to their figures."

"Length of rails and distances between poles vary widely in different parts of the country," Ruby said. "In open territory, our telegraph poles average 35 to the mile; but where severe storms are of seasonable occurence, or tracks pass through mountainous regions there may be 50 or more to the mile.

IDEAS and Ideals

A. V. NAPIER

Every town in America whose environment can reasonably be expected to make a great city of it at some future time, should have its eyes on New York during the next 12 months. The mayor of New York has appointed a planning committee of 472 persons, representing all avenues of life in the metropolis, headed by one of America's most distinguished architects.

Every city in America today is feeling the pressure of traffic complexity. City planners are giving serious consideration to problems of underground parking places, one way streets, two and three deck business highways and the construction of great arterial speedways leading to and from the residential district and the business areas. The American city, the greatest of modern miracles, is facing the problem of too rapid and insufficiently directed growth, resulting in excessive congestion in the central areas. The city dweller, by sheer glut and pressure of numbers, is being driven to seek residence farther from the business districts. New suburban centers are continually springing up. As the spaces between are filled by semi-business concerns, these suburbs eventually become a part of the major city. The American city is rapidly becoming an aglomertion of neighborhoods and the civic planners are striving to meet the problems by zoning restrictions and by isolating industrial areas. The trend of industry is toward taking its plants and factories into the country and about them, in time, there spring up satellite cities.

Traffic on the highways leading into the large cities is now extremely annoying, especially at the "rush" hours of the day but the increase in the use of the motor car as a means of daily transit is inevitable. Cities are spreading out as residential property is given over for business purposes. Homes, stores and movie theaters are going up in districts which a few years ago were meadowland or grain fields. A few years ago, it was necessary for the suburban dweller to go "down town" to attend a theater. Some of the finest show houses are now located in the outlying districts and theatergoers go out, instead of in, to see their favorite actors. These suburban theater are more popular because it is possible to find a parking space within a reasonable distance of the show. Virtually all classes of amusements are finding that land for their purpose is fully as valuable in an outlying section of the city as it would be in the heart of the city. Many amusement places, therefore, are leaving the congested districts and making way for other lines of business.

The future of the great cities raises a disturbing problem for those who have to work and live in them. This is especially true in New York and the larger cities of the Atlantic coast. New York City has something near 5000 miles of paved streets, every mile of which is more or less congested. The traffic problems of the Atlantic coast cities are now being approached in Southern California. At the present rate of increasing population, Southern California will be facing problems almost parallel with those of New York in the near future. All towns and cities within a radius of many miles from Los Angeles will be a part of a great network of teeming thoroughfares. The members of New York's planning committee have been elected on account of their special fitness for the work. They will approach the problems of sane and intelligent growth and the maladies attending traffic congestion with all the science American brains can muster. The problems to be solved in New York City will not be

MOVEMENT TO PLANT VINES ALONG COAST LINE STARTED

Laguna Planning Body Acts On Register Suggestion; Little Opposition Seen

UGLY SCARS DUE TO VANISH SOON

Other Organizations Are Expected to Assist in Beautification of Road

Following a suggestion made in an editorial in the Santa Ana Register Saturday evening, the Laguna Beach planning committee has taken steps looking toward the beautification of the Coast highway between Newport Beach and Serra by advocating the covering of the cuts and fills with vines. Although the state highway commission has a rule against such plantings, an effort will be made to have the regulation modified so that the ugly scars may be transformed into beauty spots.

Ice Plant Favored

It was agreed among members of the committee that the ice plant would need less care and less water and probably would meet with the approval of the commissioners more readily. The English ivy, moon vine and the plumbago vinebush were suggested.

Miss Anna A. Hills, noted Laguna Beach landscape painter, who is chairman of the committee, presided. The motion to advocate the vine plantings was made by Mrs. Seward A. Simons, internationally known peace worker and state chairman of international relations for the California Federation of Women's clubs, and seconded by Mrs. Thomas A. Cummings, a Laguna Beach pioneer. Other organizations and communities are expected to follow in Laguna's footsteps.

Will Begin at Home

Laguna Beach has suffered several ugly cuts inside of the subdivided area as a result of the grading of the Coast highway. It is the purpose of the planning committee, as expressed by Mrs. Simons, to begin at home. An effort will be made to cover the scars in Laguna Beach and the committee hopes that the result of the experiment will be to induce the highway commission to see it in the light of good advertising for the state.

"That is the best suggestion that we have read or heard," said Miss Hills, after the meeting. "The cuts and fills along the highway and the grade separations within the town have been a great source of worry. It seemed as though there would be no remedy but the planting of trees to offset the ugliness in a measure. But to cover up the blemishes! What a really constructive idea."

The first gash that made the Laguna Beach citizens sit up and take notice came when the highway fill was made through Boat canyon and cuts from 16 to 20 feet deep were made in the hills on either side. Cottages owned by Frank B. Champion and George S. Johnston, members of the water board, were left at the top of a 16-foot cut, and now are reached only through a grade separation. But the cut is very ugly. On the west side of Boat canyon some

GARDEN PRODUCTS BRING BIG RETURNS

Hundreds of Acres Given Over to Chili Peppers, Dill Weed and Tomatoes

"Opportunity" was writen across every title deed held by Stanton property owners a few months ago, when the new Stanton boulevard, conecting Buena Park, Stanton and Huntington Beach, affording a short cut from Los Angeles to the beaches, was thrown open to traffic. It required untold energy and boosting on the part of those interested to secure this improvement and now, like a broad, smooth ribbon, it stretches through the town, a forerunner of the prosperity sure to follow this first step.

Soil Productive

Although the homes in Stanton are scattered, they are well built and roomy dwelling places, erected by men sure of their abiding place, for farming is the principal occupation here. The sandy loam is very productive and there is an abundance of water.

This indispensable fluid was assured last week, when Eugene Bressel finished the installation of a modern pressure system at a cost to the people of around $5000. Twelve-inch casing was set to a depth of 585 feet, which insures an unlimited water supply for some time to come.

The incorporation rights of this town were forfeited when the movement began to have the boulevard come through Stanton.

Improvements Installed

The Stanton City Improvement company, with F. C. Beecher at its head, has done much in the way of improving its holdings of about 40 acres, just north of the S. P. tracks. Sidewalks and curbing are in and the entire town has electricity.

Two splendid schools, the Magnolia and the Savannah, are open to the Stanton children. The Mexican children attend a school of their own in the southern part of town. Last year, there were 250 students enrolled.

Children of high school age are taken by bus to the Anaheim high school.

Stanton church-goers usually attend services in Anaheim, as the two churches in Stanton, the Catholic and the Methodist, have been given over to the Mexican people. There are some 1200 Mexican people located in the district and they are hardworking, law abiding residents.

The American population numbers around 500 at the present time.

There is one large general store in Stanton, owned and operated by E. E. McKibben, whose sales last year totalled $40,000.

The Stanton Lumber company is a very necessary asset to this town, carrying building material of all kinds, lime, cement, hardware and various supplies. Owned by H. A. Lake, of Garden Grove, it is ably managed by J. F. Robison.

Stanton is fortunate in having both Southern Pacific and Pacific Electric tracks through the town, making access to Los Angeles and

$25,000 HOSPITAL TO BE ERECTED IN S. A.; HOME CONSTRUCTION CONTINUES UNABATED

A $25,000 hospital building is planned by Mrs. M. M. Litten, who operates the Santa Ana Maternity home at 1055 West Fourth street, it was learned today. Several sites are under consideration for the home but as yet no definite location has been decided upon.

The proposed structure will be a one-story affair of stucco construction and will cover at least two lots. Tentative plans have already been drawn.

Mrs. Litten established the hospital on West Fourth street in March. It is believed that construction work on the new building will begin before September.

Construction of residences continues unabated in Santa Ana. Work has been commenced on a $5000 dwelling at 2484 Heliotrope drive for A. J. Mansur, of 3704 North Griffin avenue, Los Angeles.

W. H. Dixon, of 510 West Nineteenth street, has secured a permit for the erection of a house and garage at 325 East Seventeenth street. The buildings will be of stucco.

D. Jones jr., of 702 Grand avenue, is building a dwelling and a garage at 724 Eastwood avenue at an expenditure of $4000. Construction will be by day work. The house will have six rooms.

H. H. Ball, of 121 West Third street, is building a house and a garage at 1844 West Seventeenth street at a cost of $4000. The contract is held by Honer, Herzig and Farney.

Floyd S. Gordon, of 1320 Soutn Broadway, has secured a permit for the erection of a residence and a garage at 1322 South Birch street. The cost will be $4500. The residence will have seven rooms.

Conover and Overman, of 1617 West Fifth street, have authorized E. A. Noe to construct a residence and a garage at 1931 West Washington avenue at a cost of $4000.

Three thousand dollars will be expended by P. T. Brightwell, of 310 West First street, in the erection of a five-room house and a garage at 515 North McClay street.

A five-room house and a garage will be built at a cost of $3000 at 419 Linwood avenue by J. W. Hess, of 902 West Sixth street.

J. L. Holcomb of 908 Cypress street, will build a house and a garage at 825 Cypress avenue at a cost of $3000.

SHIP S. A. PRODUCT TO ALL PARTS U. S.

Between 150 and 200 cases of Klikil, the product of the H. W. Turney company, 1701 West Fourth street, Santa Ana, are being shipped daily, it was stated today by H. W. Turney.

Started three years ago, the business has grown to such an extent that since January, the plant has been unable to keep up with the orders. It is hoped to eventually cover the United States.

Five traveling salesmen are on the payroll of the company. The ingredients used in the manufacture of Flikil are purchased in foreign countries and are the best obtainable, Mr. Turney declares.

Mr. Turney will leave soon to make arrangements for the estab-

¶ Wrinkles? Horrors! There are a few; now we never noticed them before. Some old trouble-making soul told us that character writes itself on the face in wrinkles. And that face doctors make liars out of us.

¶ Just two ways out of such incrimination, that we can see. FIRST, believe in fairies and stay young in spirit anyway. SECOND, equip your car with tires here and drive worry away as you load your car full of fairy elves for a long, long joy ride.

WEST COAST-WALKER

Bits of sparkling comedy tossed along on surging waves of dramatic action feature "The Impostor," the picture which closes tonight at the West Coast-Walker.

Vivid, throbbing chunks of action, ranging in scope from Gotham's underworld to fashionable society on Long Island, are tensely bound together with a thrilling story of a girl's desperate fight to save her brother from prison. The splendid acting of Evelyn Brent is given full play in this powerful human drama, from the appealing emotion of the scene in which she is ordered from the house by her stern father, to the delightful episode when as Canada Nell, a girl of the streets, she impersonates her real self at a formal garden party, under the watchful gaze of the suave jewel crook.

YOST THEATER

The film production in which Lon Chaney, star of "The Phantom of the Opera," first established himself as a great character actor, will be shown at the Yost theater tonight.

"Outside the Law" is the title of the production in which Priscilla Dean is the star and in which Lon Chaney plays the remarkable dual role that brought his general recognition as the foremost character actor of the time. As "Black Mike" in the thrilling crook melodrama which was written and directed by Todd Browning, Chaney actually set the style in realistic crook portrayals, and in the character of Chang Lo, the sinister celestial, he achieved a character that marked him as a genius.

Several years have elapsed since "Outside the Law" made its first sensational run, breaking down previous standards of public interest and attendance in many cities and towns. Since the day the films and negatives of this highly successful production were placed on the storehouse shelf for the "last" time, many of those who saw it on its initial run have requested its reappearance and exhibitors throughout the country have tried to book the picture to satisfy the insistent demand of their patrons for a reshowing.

Movie Chatterbox

Readers of motion picture news publicity emanating from Hollywood will undoubtedly have marked that the phrase "movie queen" is on longer in usage.

The designation "queen" once applied indiscriminately and invariably to film actresses, is definitely taboo. It was discovered to be creating popular antagonism rather than awesome respect for the film colony.

It indicated in a word the aristocratic and regal pretentions of a coterie of entertainers, reflected throughout the industry. And it simply didn't go down very well with a boastedly democratic populace (most of whom never could hope to be a queen).

This was indicated all to clearly at the unholy joy the populace had in those occasional scandals which took the haughty ones down a peg.

Quite abruptly that official face which Hollywood turned toward the public changed. Its publicity psychology assumed the democratic pattern. Those exalted entertainers who would not of themselves conform to popular decorum and a seeming of modesty were curbed. By and large, they no longer paraded and preened their station nor boasted unduly of their lares and penates (meaning palaces, autos and diamonds). And that change of policy is now in full flower.

Hollywood's celebrities today want to be considered just plain folks, like the rest of us—which of course they have always been.

* * *

Nevertheless, except for business purposes, a great gulf is fixed between film celebrities and an admiring populace. Almost every affair where stars and public are brought into contact demonstrates how vain is the hope of movie fans that the momentary relationship will approximate a rubbing of elbows.

Only a few stars or featured players will condescend to dance in public, even with their own escorts. To mingle with just ordinary folks is not to be thought of, even though the announcements may adroitly seek to convey that impression.

For instance, at the recent motion picture theatre owners' ball, the film celebrities were out en masse, seated in show regalia in box parties around the dance arena, soft-lighted for the ocular benefit of the theater owners and their friends.

Obviously, most of them were bored, some audibly so. Under the thinnest pretense of good fellowship, they suffered themselves to be stared at until public introductions had been made, about the middle of the evening's entertainment.

Then the vast majority departed instantly with a relieved "that's that!" And the emptied boxes looked like a prodigious wooden yawn in the face of the dancing assemblage.

"In the last 15 years I have lent millions to motion pictures and have not lost a nickel," Dr. A. P. Giannini, head of the Bowery and East River National bank, said recently. The proximity of his banks in California to the motion picture studios and the fact that he is a movie fan brought him into closer touch with the industry, he declared.

"I go to movies rather than golfing or fishing," said Dr. Giannini. "In this way I have come to know producers and their pictures."

Opposition to motion picture financing in bank inspection circles until a few years ago was intense, the banker said, but during the crisis in 1921, he added, certain motion picture stars were even more of an immediate market asset than government paper.

"In a short time," he concluded, "we convinced the inspectors that motion picture companies met their debts as promptly as did other kinds of industry."

"The relations between the navy department and the motion picture producers have been very cordial," according to Curtis D. Wilbur, secretary of the navy, "and they have always co-operated heartily with the navy department in its endeavor to give sailormen fine, clean motion pictures."

Santa Ana, Calif.,
July 20, 1926.

Editor Register:—Will you pardon me if I again bring up the question of the proposed improvement of South Main street?

It is generally agreed that this highway needs to be repaved and supplied with better lights, and, as well, the Newport road widened to the width of South Main street as it is at present. But there is much apparently futile anger over the removal of all of the trees in order to widen the highway and this largely on the part of substantial citizens, whose homes are on that street, but partly on the part of residents of nearby streets, who are proud of that beautiful street and deplore the removal of its double line of trees.

It is stated that the protest that went to the council represented 42 per cent of the frontage, while 58 per cent of the total frontage favored widening the street and cutting down all of the trees. In this connection, it may be remarked that this total frontage represents a long stretch that has not been improved by the erection of buildings and is held for sale. It has been represented that if the developed frontage be counted by itself that the vote on the question would be entirely reversed. The persons who are angry over the disposition of the matter feel that actual residents in the built-up section of the street are being discriminated against in favor of those whose interests are speculative and who have no beautiful trees on their tracts to be sacrificed.

Now it is intimated that the residential section of North Main street also is to be widened and its trees sacrificed. Will the good people in the north end complacently favor spoiling that street also? I very much doubt it.

Main street traffic is seldom congested except on Sundays and holidays, and then principally by through traffic that never stops in Santa Ana, spends little if any money here, but finds this tree embowered street such a novelty that it is a great advertisement to our city, for such thoroughfares are becoming rare in Southern California. Cut down the trees on North Main and gradually you will find the tourist traffic preferring Broadway on account of its beauty.

It is to be regretted that there are many vacant store rooms in Santa Ana, especially on streets that have been boomed as coming business centers. We have a city planner here and he knows the economic necessity for zoning business as well as residential districts. Horticulture and the city beautiful idea has long been a fad with me. I have quite a library on the subject and have taken courses in it. Hence I know the tendency of city planning today. In such matters, the status quo, as regards business districts, must enter into plans. Thus far, city planners have not been able to change existing lines of business development without disastrous mistakes being made, whatever they may actually accomplish as regards residential boulevards, civic centers and parks.

In Santa Ana, the actual business center is bounded by First street on the south, and unless we double our population very soon, there will very little business go down South Main street so long as vacant lots remain in the present business district. Therefore, it is a pity to spoil South Main street as a residence street in order to make a futile effort to draw business away from where the people are. Furthermore, it is not fair to our merchants in the real business district to fill up outlying sections with small store rooms.

I do not live on Main street, but know a large number of persons there and sympathize with them in their strenuous objection to cutting down the trees.

Respectfully,
THOMAS S. BLAIR.

shipping of freight as convenient as enjoyed by towns much larger. The P. E. maintains a power house here also, furnishing employment to several men.

Although, when a city, the town measured only four miles square, a vast acreage is given over for the production of garden vegetables and oranges. And in the outlying districts, thousands of chickens and rabbits are raised for the Los Angeles and other markets.

C. T. Foster, in his modern rabbitry, has more than 100 does at all times and finds time and money well invested in this occupation.

Something around 3000 chickens are kept on the chicken ranches of McSweeney brothers and Druce brothers.

September Busy Month

When September comes there is a hustle and bustle in Stanton to take care of the enormous production of cucumbers, tomatoes, chili peppers and cabbage.

Last year, about eight carloads of cabbage was shipped from this town.

Close to the S. P. tracks, E. Harberger has established a pickling works. From this place last year, 42 tons of cabbage was converted into sauerkraut and many were the thousands of cucumbers that went into brine. This year, more than 200 acres have been planted to cucumbers under contract for this company.

Dill weed is grown extensively and shipped east in brine by those who contract for the growers' entire production.

Turner's packing house, owned by F. D. Turner, during the busy season, ships tomatoes in carload lots, employing 15 to 20 hands for about two months.

Ship 18 Cars Tomatoes

Eighteen carloads of tomatoes were shipped from the Turner packing house last year and this year finds 250 acres planted to this one vegetable.

S. Murrata is one of the largest pepper growers in the county and hundreds of acres of chili peppers are being grown for him in Stanton this year. They are stored by the carloads in the commodious Turner warehouse by the railroad.

Other products grown rather extensively are oranges, strawberries and blackberries.

With the new boulevard linking this highly productive area with the trade channels of the large cities and beach resorts, Stanton cannot fail to find its place as a producing center, around which homes will be erected—homes that bespeak prosperity and contentment.

Our Neighbors

WHITTIER.—One hundred and nine carloads of citrus fruits were shipped by the Whittier District Fruit Exchange during the past week, the valencia season being in full swing. Seventy-two cars of oranges were shipped, against 62 of the week before. Lemons, too, are holding up well, 37 cars having been shipped, an increase of 66 cars over the preceding week. There is an increased demand for the smaller-sized fruit, which heretofore has not been shipped, but this year the soft-drink stands are using more oranges for orange drinks and flavorings than ever before, and the grower finds a ready market for his smaller-sized fruit.

EL CENTRO.—Preparations are being made for the biggest lettuce season Imperial valley has ever had. It is now estimated that the acreage will exceed 34,000 acres, as compared with last year's 24,700, according to B. A. Harrigan, county horticultural commissioner. He says that if the season proves normal, Imperial valley will produce sufficient lettuce to supply the world and that the present prospects are bright for good returns. Blight resistant seed in considerable quantity will be pro-rated among all the seedmen of the valley, who in turn will see that it is properly distributed among all the growers. Harrigan says there will probably be enough to seed 10,000 acres. This seed will yield approximately 100 crates more to the acre than the ordinary seed.

LONG BEACH.—Commerce handled by Long Beach harbor during the fiscal year that ended June 30 had a total value of more than $6,500,000 and a total tonnage of more than 800,000, according to official figures compiled under the direction of Major R. G. McGlone, harbor engineer. The bulk of this shipping represents the business of the last six months, inasmuch as the connecting channel was not operated to vessels of more than 20 feet draught until last December, and the statement, while highly satisfactory when considered under all the circumstances, is looked upon as only preliminary to a much larger volume of trade now that the direct entrance channel from Long Beach docks to the sea has been opened within recent days. One of the most encouraging developments is the large proportion of foreign commerce, the ratio running nearly one-quarter of the total. Domestic trade totaled $4,994,918.49 and foreign trade $1,543,714.60.

Among the customers of the firm are the Fred Harvey company and the city, county, state and federal governments.

According to Mr. Turney, Flikil is non-poisonous and leaves no stain. In addition to being effective against flies, it is also used for extermination of ants, moths, roaches and citrus pests. According to Mr. Turney, it is also ideal for use as a windshield cleaner.

The business of the local company is increasing to such an extent that he is working night and day, the plant owner says.

"Flikil is made from a formula devised after a good many years' careful thought on the matter," declared Turney today. "That it is effective is attested by the fact that some of the largest concerns in the United States are using it."

houses were left virtually out of sight. The cut is through solid rock for a great part of the way and the appearance is that of a railroad cut. It will be a difficult section of the highway to beautify.

Steam Shovel Leaves Scars

The steam shovel has been tearing its way through Arch Beach for the past week and some ugly scars have resulted there. It now is difficult to reach many of the finer residences, including that of Frank Miller, owner of the Mission inn at Riverside. Grade separations will take care of many of these problems before the highway work has been finished. However, the uncovered scars will remain an eyesore until some steps are taken to cover them.

There is a cut of 14 feet at the Arch Beach grocery but a great fill has been made across the next canyon to avoid following what was the first hairpin turn on the road to Aliso.

The cutting of the new road has played some odd tricks to the property owners. William Wendt's studio is left high and dry and he will be forced to reach it by a roundabout road. The studio of Karl Yens, on the other hand is virtually buried because of a fill.

The highway will cross a section of the concrete bridge leading down to the Frank Miller place and a new way will have to be found to the Miller garage.

identical with those faced in the far west, but they will have so much similarity that western planners will no doubt find many practical answers to questions which have been confronted and which will require definite action in the near future.

BUILDERS' QUERIES ANSWERED

By Southern California Chapter, Associated General Contractors of America

Q. Is it practical to put red cedar shingles over old shingles when renewing the roof of my house?

A. It has been considered impractical to apply new shingles over old. However, an experiment made recently justifies the statement that new shingles can be placed over old shingles successfully.

Q. How much sand, gravel and cement will be required to build a retaining wall 50 feet long, four feet high and 10 inches thick?

A. If you use a mixture of one part Portland cement, two parts sand and four parts gravel, (gravel not to be over three-quarter inch) it will require 34 sacks of cement, two and one-half yards sand and five yards gravel.

Q. In my home, I have a hardwood floor laid over a sub-floor and the floor squeaks at every step. Will you please advise me if there is a remedy for this situation?

A. If you will locate places that squeak, which will usually be over a floor joist and drive an 8d finishing nail through the hardwood floor and the sub-floor into the floor joist, the squeaks will, in all probability, disappear. The nail should be sunk into the hardwood floor with a nailset and the hole filled with putty.

Q. Will you please advise me how the cost of a two-story house will compare to the cost of a bungalow, the floor area in both dwellings being the same? Also, how does the cost of a brick veneer dwelling compare with a stucco dwelling?

A. The cost of a two-story house will be less than the cost of a bungalow, provided, however, the floor areas are the same and the materials used are of the same quality, the principal saving being made in the foundation and roof construction. A brick veneer dwelling will not cost much more than a stucco dwelling.

Q. Is it advisable to use soft brick for backing in a 12-inch wall?

A. It is to an advantage to use soft brick for backing, because soft brick not only costs less but affords a better bonding surface on which to plaster.

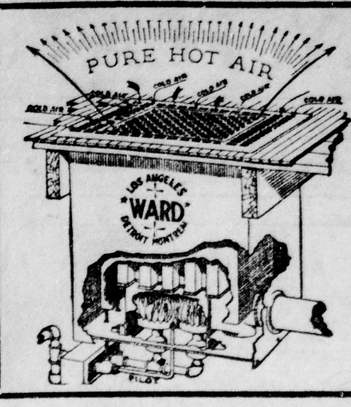

Q. Will you please advise me if two-inch by three-inch rafters will be sufficiently strong for roof construction on a six-room dwelling?

A. Two by three inch rafters will be satisfactory for room construction if they are spaced 32 inches on center, with a span not to exceed six feet.

THE STORY OF EDGAR ALLEN POE — BY REDNER

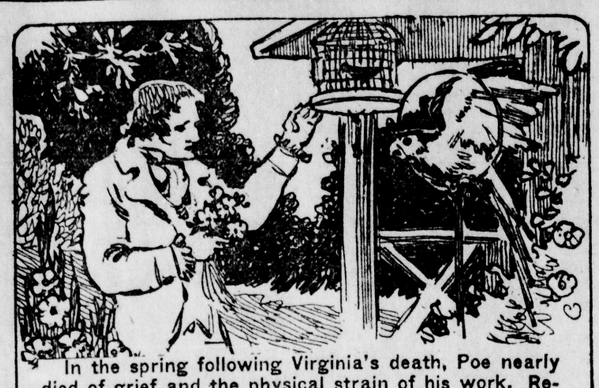

Poe fought valiantly in Richmond with his besetting sin, but was weak and often fell. He left Richmond, giving up his work for no apparent reason at all, and taking the family to New York. Here he was received as a literary lion. Tragedy again appeared when Virginia became ill.

Poe and the family moved to a tiny cottage at Fordham, N. Y., where it was hoped Virginia would regain her health.

Virginia died in the little house at Fordham, January 30, 1847. Poe faced the future with despair.

In the spring following Virginia's death, Poe nearly died of grief and the physical strain of his work. Recovering, he plunged into work, and attended his flower garden and his pets—a caged bobolink and parrot. Often he would stand on the bluff overlooking Harlem River and meditate. (Continued)

The WOMAN'S DAY by Allene Sumner

ON BOARD S. S. Leviathan, July 22—We are going to Europe. We are on a big boat. The boat is moving. We will reach Europe in six days, all going well, God willin'

My style is modeled after that of little Rollo. A friend gave me a complete set of the Little Rollo Abroad books for a bon voyage gift.

We also have candy and other things which should never be given as bon voyage gifts by those people who follow etiquet in all her many phases.

Lemons, drief beef, sassafras root and soda straight are bon voyage gifts recommended by every watery traveler.

There are 2000 passengers on board, most of them in the tourist III cabin.

They, like Gwennie Astorbilt, just can't stand all the effete tokens of the effete civilization as carried on in First Class.

* * *

I might digress a moment and mention that one can go to Europe and come home again for $180 round trip if he or she travels like most of us on this boat are.

Second class travel is $157 up, one way. First class, $290 up, one way.

Most of the tourist third class travelers have solved the problem by paying the third cabin fee and sneaking under gates into second class for morning broth, afternoon tea, and deck chair space.

An official in blue serge and gold braid tells me that these tourist third class people are easily hurt and so sensitive that it is hard to make them stay home and play on their own side.

"They know they're as good as anyone else," he says, "and they won't take orders."

Ever and anon a doughty steward shoos 'em home. But even they can't keep a good tourist down.

A few sylphs have even achieved entrance into that sacred of sacreds, First Class, where the bloated plutocrats walk on ponderous feet over orientals and gaze upon oil canvassed walls.

There's a certain spot on this ship where one of the gates which separate the sheep from the goats collides with a lifeboat. If one is agile, one can climb the lifeboat and into the region where staterooms rent for a thousand dollars or less.

I have met all my friends on the other side. It is probably a felony. Everyone on the boat has committed it. Some persons told me that they wanted to visit the steerage, but were not allowed.

Speaking of steerage, some of it, about 100, has been spilled into our sumptuous quarters. A mistake, they say. First time it ever happened. But someone who wore a hat instead of a shawl bought tickets for the entire 100 and here they are, language, beards, babes, et al.

They got shooed back from second class. Not as sensitive as we professionals!

We tourists have organized amusement. We have a community song leader who has taught us a duet about ham and eggs. We are all writing last lines to a limerick about a whale who lived too far from his tail.

We have tablecloths and posies in the old former steerage room, and clean napkins every other day.

Camp style service. Coffee and tea pots are put on the table and we pour our own. Huge bowls of salad and the water pitcher, too, are passed by our own fair hands.

One dislikes speaking of food upon certain occasions, such as voyaging, but since you might like to know what "us poor girls" endure when we rough it, here's today's menu:

Breakfast: choice of fruit, cereal with milk, ham or bacon and eggs with potatoes, rolls, jam, coffee.

Lunch: soup, veal stew, potatoes, combination salad, dried peach pie, tea.

Dinner: soup, roast beef, potatoes, sweet corn, salad, crackers and cheese, tapioca pudding, coffee.

Broth and crackers are served mid-morning, and tea and cakes mid-afternoon. Which seems to be the main trouble.

Deck and cabin tourist third space is altogether too small for the number of passengers. There is space for only a very few deck chairs under a roof. When it rains and suns, a goodly number must flee to staterooms.

We hear few complaints, however. Accommodations may not be Ritzy, but we figure the many nice juicy francs we are saving to spend over there.

MY GOLF PARTNERS

I do not wail my lot or say
My luck is worse than others' seems,
I know the game of golf I play
Is ever fraught with shattered dreams,
But still I wonder just the same
What always ails my partner's game.

When those I'm teamed with chanced be
Upon the other side, I'll swear
They do their best opposed to me,
Their drives are always straight and fair,
Those ten-foot putts, upon my soul,
They always sink to win the hole.

But as my partners, it is strange,
These clever fellows cannot drive.
Teamed up with me they seem to change
And never get a hole in five.
I draw them when they're off their game
Or sick or muscle-bound or lame.

Opposed to me they putt with skill,
With me they cannot find the line
My ears with alibis they fill,
A sad experience is mine.
Against me they are marvels, but
For me they neither drive nor putt.

Live One Day at a Time!

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

We were walking down street together one morning, my neighbor and I, and after the usual greeting of neighbors about never seeing each other and how busy everybody was, I began the Calamity Jane growl about not knowing what I was going to do if things did not let up and give me a rest.

I dessertated on spring, how I hated to see it come, and how, instead of getting out and watching things grow, as I had a mind to, I had to look after house-cleaning, getting clothes ready for the family for warm days, packing away winter things, making things over, and all the rest of it.

I growled and growled and growled and the more I talked the madder I got at the way spring was treating me.

Suddenly I remembered! "Oh, how's Jim?" I asked. "Is his leg all right?" My neighbor sighed, "I'm afraid he'll always be a little lame," she said. "I've given him all my time. But he's pretty well out of the woods now so I can give the rest of the family some attention. Phillip was scolding last night"—Phillip is her husband—"he says I can only do one thing at a time. But I told him that I just do the best I can."

I looked at her, quietly efficient and calm. I knew that her family would not lack any attention, and that her husband was a nervous kicker. Her son had had an automobile accident and she had cared for him herself. I stood corrected. The quiet, unintentional rebuke was a whole sermon.

Years ago I heard practically the same sermon from the pulpit. The text was, "Do that which thy hand findeth to do."

Said the minister, "Live one day at a time. Were I to think today what I had to do tomorrow, I could not carry on."

Think it over. It is a wonderful help to a busy person. Forget about tomorrow.

BEAUTY CHATS by EDNA KENT FORBES

A SAGGING CHIN LINE

A sagging chin line must literally be propped up. Or strapped up might be more descriptive. A great deal can be done by astringents and massage, but an hour or so of a snugly arranged strap will do wonders. This, of course, is advice for the woman who is getting on towards 40 or who is perhaps past 40.

There are two good treatments. One is white of egg, well beaten and diluted with its own amount of vinegar. It should be kept in a corked, wide mouthed bottle or an airtight jar, and rubbed over the skin after it has been cleansed with cold cream. The paste dries and thickens, and draws up the skin in a marvelous fashion. Egg is the basis of most good paste astringents. If you use this treatment, lie flat on your back without a pillow, for 20 minutes while the paste dries. This keeps the chin in proper position. Wash the paste off with warm water and rub with a little cream.

The other treatment is to massage the chin with cleansing cold cream, if you are stout and the sagging line may be due to fat, and flesh building if you are thin, and if the skin needs nourishment. Rub well, to stimulate the muscles, and rub and knead very hard if you are trying to cure a double chin. Wipe the cream off and rub for several minutes with a piece of ice. Then strap up the chin with strips of muslin wound over the head and as snugly beneath the chin as possible.

Wear this as long as you conveniently can. If you can wear some such strap all night, do so; it is an excellent treatment for a really old chin. But if you are merely middle aged, try it an hour or so a day.

Anxious — You cannot bleach your skin continually without injuring it, so you will do well to let the freckles alone.

Mrs. J. V.—Anything that shows an immediate effect upon enlarged pores must be a powerful astringent. Any lasting improvement to a skin in this condition will have to take time and good care, and a simple method is to take a full bath daily and always close the pores again with very cold water.

Mrs. N. J.—You are fully 11 pounds underweight at 100 pounds with a height of five feet, four inches at 23 years of age. Do everything you can to increase your appetite and choose foods that are very nourishing.

Massage your scalp daily to stimulate the action of the oil glands, and do the same with your face and throat using a cream or some olive oil. Your skin and hair will not be so dry after you have built yourself up to the proper weight.

MENUS for the FAMILY

LUNCHEON — Scalloped spinach, whole wheat bread, ginger bread, milk, tea.

DINNER—Salisbury steak with baked bananas, buttered rice, creamed green beans, jellied cabbage, huckleberry roly-poly, rye bread, milk, coffee.

If shredded cabbage is added to a tart lemon jelly and the mixture placed in the ice box to chill and become firm a simple delicious salad is the result. You can use your favorite brand of prepared jelly or gelatine and add lemon juice to suit your taste. To make the salad a bit more festive, coarsely chopped nuts can be sprinkled over just before serving. Nuts lose their crispness if allowed to stand in a gelatine mixture.

Scalloped Spinach

Two cups chopped cooked spinach, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 3 hard cooked eggs, 1 cup finely chopped cooked ham, 1 cup white sauce, 4 tablespoons grated cheese, 4 tablespoons buttered crumbs, 1 tablespoon butter.

Season spinach with salt, pepper and butter. Put half of it into a well-buttered baking dish. Cover with a layer of ham. Pour over white sauce and add eggs cut in thin slices. Cover with remaining spinach. Sprinkle with grated cheese and cover with buttered crumbs. Put into a hot oven to brown the crumbs and thoroughly heat the mixture.

PARENT SCHOOL QUARTERS ARE SOUGHT HERE

Orange county having been selected as one of the two counties in Southern California and one of the four counties in the entire state to have an experimental school for instruction of parents, Santa Ana authorities, aided by the chamber of commerce and other civic organizations, should lose no time in coming forward with an offer for suitable quarters for the school, in the opinion of Mrs. J. V. Kelsey, Garden Grove, president of the fourth (Orange county) district, California Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Her opinion is supported by Mrs. Fay R. Spangler, Santa Ana, who suggested today that representations to that end be made to the school board.

Mrs. Kelsey explained that the selection of Orange county as a site for one of these schools, representing a pioneering movement on public education, should be appreciated by the people of the county seat. Because of the interest centered about this noval experiment in public education, its progress will be followed by educators throughout the country, a fact which, in itself, she observed, will give Santa Ana and, incidentally, Orange county, coninterest centered about this novel

Mrs. Kelsey and Mrs. Spangler were loud in their praise of Huntington Beach, which community was first to offer free quarters for the proposed school. They remarked, however, that the school for many and various reasons, should be located in the center of the county.

Mrs. Kelsey announced today the following chairmen appointed to standing committees of the district organization:

Committee on resolutions, Mrs. Earl Morris, Santa Ana; committee on credentials, Mrs. D. R. White, Huntington Beach.

COUNTY CLERK CAN PROVIDE NECESSARY SPEED IN RACE ON FACE OF 1901 RECORD

County Clerk J. M. Backs has no race on his hands this year, but he has proved that, if the need arises, he can show plenty of speed.

"A foot race between Joe Backs of this city and a San Francisco sprinter named Peter Geary for $25 a side, drew a crowd of several hundred persons to Broadway on Saturday afternoon. Herman Dickel and Fritz Yungluth were selected as judges and Billy Freise acted as starter. The runners lost no time in starting. Backs led for more than half the distance when the San Francisco man ran ahead and finished six feet ahead of him, in 10 1-5 seconds. The judges decided that Geary had fouled Backs, and declared it no race."

Isn't All Done Sprinting

When shown the clipping, Backs admitted that he hasn't done all of his sprinting for political office.

"I remember the race, all right," he said. "The boys were pretty well worked up over it.

"Geary proposed the race and when we got all ready, he commenced fiddling around over the way we would start. First he suggested that we both take an end of a string and run up to the starting line where the starter would be standing. One of us would pass on each side of him and when he broke the string the race would be on. I agreed. Then Geary decided he wanted some other way of starting. He suggested another and I agreed again. That didn't satisfy him and he suggested that we start off our marks at a pistol start, as races are started nowadays. I agreed once more, so finally we got started.

Uses Elbows to Advantage

"I was ahead for about half way, then I eased up a little and Geary came up even. Then he stuck his elbow in front of my chest and crowded over against me so that I couldn't run around him. He kept me boxed that way to the finish. There wasn't a chance to get loose, unless I fouled him.

"Freise and Yungbluth and those fellows were certainly mad. They told Geary that he couldn't work anything like that. Another race was suggested by Geary refused to run again."

Viscount Dillion, whose marriage at the age of 82 is reported from London, is regarded as one of the world's foremost authorities on armor and costumes.

CURIO HUNTERS RUIN MARYLAND INDIAN STONES

BALTIMORE, July 22.—Fear that, on completion of the Conowingo dam, the rising waters of the Susquehanna river will cover the pictographs carved on river rocks by prehistoric Indians is wasted sentiment, according to Francis C. Nicholas, dean of the Maryland Academy of Sciences, who visited the rocks recently, says the Baltimore Sun.

From present indications, Nicholas says, by the time the dam is completed the picture rocks will have been removed or destroyed by private collectors, curio hunters and vandals. Already most of the good pieces have been taken, and in many cases whole sections have been destroyed in order that one small picture might be obtained.

"A project was under way to take up these sculptured rocks and make of them a monument to the Indians, the monument to be located in Baltimore," Nicholas said. "Now the opportunity is gone; the work would be futile."

The rock carvings, Nicholas pointed out, are typical of Maryland, and are to be found nowhere else in the world.

One of the best of the pieces, however, has been obtained by the Academy of Sciences and is on view in its museum. It is the only known work of the ancient Indians of the pre-Colombian period perhaps in which an effort has been made to depict some actual scene or event.

Sketched on the piece of rock, which is so heavy that it requires two men to lift it, is the outline of a fish swimming up the rapids of the Susquehanna river.

Experts have spoken of the picture as the finest example of Indian rock carving to be found in the eastern states.

The purpose of the rock carvings and any meaning they may have held is as hopelessly lost as is the people which so laboriously produced them. For the most part they are crude raggedly executed outlines, often so lacking in detail that it is impossible for any one to decide just what the drawing was intended to represent.

Pictures of fish are commonly found and perhaps most easily recognized of the specimens. There are figures which suggest strutting turkey cocks, as seen by an eye skilled in symbolism. There are figures which might be the sun with its rays streaming in all directions, or which might be crabs with many legs, figures which might be trees with spreading branches or the Susquehanna with its tributaries.

It is presumed that the figures had some religious significance to the designers, and from this that the rocks whereon they appear were a sanctuary for the aborigines.

While archaeologists attribute great age to the carvings no one has been able to advance definite proof that they were created in any particular period.

Lancaster county history says that William Penn was interested in the queer figures and endeavored to find out their origin from the Indians then inhabiting the country. His efforts, however, developed nothing more definite than that they had been there since before the time of contemporary dwellers' grandfathers' grandfathers.

Cowboy Battles Bull Moose With Lariat and Wins

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 22.—With a "Whoop-ee!" Victor Furrer, known as the most daring cowboy in the Cariboo country, gave his lasso a twirl, settled it carefully around the horns of a 1500-pound bull moose, and the fight was on.

Victor was going home to Williams Lake from Lone Butte when he met Mr. Moose on a narrow trail. Not having a gun he proceeded to use the most powerful weapon a cowboy knows, with the result that the moose made for the woods dragging the cowboy and his horse. The moose charged, and Victor took several turns around trees, roping the moose until he got a gun and finished the job.

Sultan Disgusted With Charleston

PARIS, July 22.—Sultan Mulai Youseff, of Morocco, has seen many strange sights during his stay in Paris, but none which surprised him more than an exhibition of the Charleston, which he witnessed in a fashionable establishment on the Bois de Boulogne.

After gazing at the smart American and French girls disporting themselves in the lively motions of the dance, the sultan registered marked disapproval. Turning to M. Steeg, French resident-general for Morocco, he said:

"It is very curious. I don't understand how men can allow their wives and daughters to join in it."

CHURCHMEN TO HOLD MEET AT Y. M. C. A. HERE

Effective enforcement of the national prohibition act and all local dry laws; legislation designed to put a stop to gambling, including private side-betting, on the Tia Juana and all other horse races; and placing the Bible in public school libraries are among subjects to be discussed tomorrow night at a dinner meeting of church workers in the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A.

An invitation to attend the dinner has been extended to members of all church brotherhoods in the county by A. C. Diehl, chairman of the committee on arrangements. At the conclusion of the dinner, there will be proposal to organize the various church brotherhoods in the county into a county unit of the Federated Church Brotherhoods of California, it was explained.

A special entertainment program has been provided for the dinner, which will be served at 6:30 by the Ladies' Aid society.

"This is election year in California and there are moral issues involved in several of the referendum measures that deserve our most careful attention and consideration—the nullification of the Wright act, the placing of the Bible in the public school libraries, the gambling on horse racing—being among the most important," reads the official invitation to the meeting.

According to Diehl, the organization movement has the support of all church people in the county, and a big attendance is expected.

Included among the speakers are prominent men of Los Angeles and Pomona, who have made a special study of their respective subjects.

It was intimated by Diehl that a considerable portion of the discussion will be devoted to the alleged efforts to secure a modification of the Volstead law as well as to nullify the California Wright act. In addition to registering a determined opposition to a proposal to renew legalized horse racing in California, recommendations will be made for enactment of legislation that will stop side-betting between private parties on Tia Juana and all other races.

NEW STYLE OF HAT FOR NURSES SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, July 22.—The "shingle" and the "bob" form the basis of the latest problems which confront the army general staff.

So many army nurses have cut their hair short that the surgeon general and the quartermaster general are looking around for a new style hat for them which will be both becoming and serviceable.

The present regulation sailor is to be abandoned because it cannot be anchored securely to bobbed tresses and a modified overseas cap has been suggested as a substitute.

The demand by the nurses for a new design headgear brought to mind an order issued in 1776 to the West Point garrison which read:

"As the headdress of a soldier is one of the first and necessary ornaments, the captain commands the noncommissioned officers and privates of the first class to have their hair cued behind not to exceed seven inches long and close to the head.

"The noncommissioned officers and privates of the Second regiment to have their hair filed behind in a bob cut close to the head.

"The noncommissioned officers and privates of the Second regiment to have their hair tied behind in a bob cut close to the head, the hair of the whole to be cut on the top of the head short and brushed back."

Greatest Canine Travelers Honored

PHILADELPHIA, July 22.—"Owney," who 30 years ago was known as the greatest dog traveler in the world, is receiving posthumous honors at the Sesqui-Centennial exposition here.

"Owney"—whence he got his nick-name no one knows—was adopted by the post office employes in Albany, N. Y., as a mascot in 1889. After a trip in a mail-car to New York City he developed a mania for traveling and in the next eight years visited every state in the union, parts of Canada and Mexico and circled the globe.

He made his trips alone, being helped along his route by mail clerks and sea captains. At nearly every stopping place he was decorated with a token or coin.

"Owney" met his death in 1897 at Toledo, O., when he was mistaken for a waif. The body was prepared by a taxidermist and now is in the model post office at the Sesqui-Centennial, surrounded by the medals, badges, and testimonials "Owney" received in his wanderings.

2 New Minerals Are Discovered

ROME, July 22.—Discovery of two minerals containing silver, gold and platinum in a colloidal state, is claimed by Ludovico Dalferno, an engineer, who has named them dalfernite and aurogummite.

The minerals, he says, are abundant in Italy and he can produce from them at a reasonable cost between one and two per cent of gold, 25 per cent of silver and a considerable amount of platinum.

"Since no mineral resembling these existed in the list of gold or silver bearing minerals," he said, "I claim them as new discoveries."

ISLAND TELEPHONE COMPANY WON'T BOOST RATES, EVEN THOUGH THERE ARE NO PROFITS

WASHINGTON ISLAND, Wis., July 22.—Imagine a telephone company that, failing to make a penny in profit for its stockholders, refused to raise its rates because it wanted to give the best service possible!

It sounds impossible. But this isolated Lake Michigan community of farmers and fishermen has such an organization.

The co-operative telephone company is probably like no other commercial institution in the United States.

It was organized 16 years ago at a cost of about $9100. Since then the property has increased in value by 50 per cent. The rates have always remained the same, and the concern just pays for its upkeep.

Buy Own Instruments

Subscribers buy their instruments and the company rents then at $2 a year and supplies one set of batteries free. Subscribers pay nothing for calls up until 9 at night, and after that pay 10 cents a call. This extra dime is for the operator—the company has only one—to pay her for being awakened.

Visitors to the island pay 5 cents a call before 9 p. m. and 15 cents thereafter. The operator knows when a visitor is using the phone by the sound of his voice. That is her only way of telling. She gets her home free and is given all night tolls plus 50 cents a month on each telephone as salary.

The service is good, too, and a cable connects the lines here with the mainland. Not long ago a state inspector came here and remarked that the rate of $150 a month was ridiculously low. But the islanders voted down his proposal that it be increased.

Dairymen, too, have a co-operative society for the breeding of their blooded Holstein cattle. was the second community in the Washington island, by the way, United States to have its cattle tuberculin tested.

A Community Doctor

There is a co-operative creamery and cheese-making plant. There is a community doctor, too, who is guaranteed $5000 a year, and if his fees fail to reach that amount the islanders chip in and make up the difference.

A co-operative insurance company also thrives here. When profits and reserve are great enough premiums are cancelled. There is an absence of red tape in this organization, too, and recently when an islander's home burned down, his loss was paid within a few hours, and the islanders got together immediately thereafter, took up a collection and presented their neighbor with a purse of several hundred dollars.

The island spends about 50 cents of every dollar collected in taxes on education. There are four schools and 357 pupils. The roads are excellent, and when the island treasury is shy of cash the residents chip in and pay for repairs out of their own pockets.

The leading citizen here is William Jess. He is town chairman, school board clerk, treasurer and general manager of the telephone company and half a dozen other things. His son, Harvey, is the telephone company's sole lineman.

Good Vacation Place

While farming and fishing are the chief industries here, in the summer time the island does a thriving resort business. It makes an ideal vacation spot, with good fishing grounds and excellent bathing beaches, and a number of people come here year after year.

The islanders don't ask where you are from, how long you are going to stay or where you are going. They only say:

"Maye our island your home while you are here. If there is anything you want and can't find, ask for it."

Prices are moderate and no man tries to outdo his competitor. In fact, when a storekeeper is out of any commodity he can go to his rival and borrow what he needs until the next boat arrives. And although this is a rural community, all four stores make daily deliveries from one end of the island to the other.

The islanders are always anxious for visitors to see the monument they erected to the 40 island boys who went to war in 1917 and 1918. Four of these lads did not come back. The islanders have never forgotten them.

All in all, a unique community. The islanders aren't saints of course. But it would be mighty hard to find another community of 1000 souls that actually practice service and neighborliness and let profits come second.

Movie Chatterbox

Nevada cowboys, used to this land, ride their parts in the picture, then look laconically on while Hollywood tenderfeet fume and fret. Ronald Colman, as "Willard Holmes," the hero, is imperturbable, and nothing flusters the composure of the blond Vilma Banky, who enacts "Barbara."

Stamp of Realism

Far out on the flat the wind devils muster their dust spirals for a charge upon the camp. Weird mirages display their lying promise of water. And the naked Harlequin Mountains stick out taunting tongues at the toiling movie folk, plodding in now for wash-up and a rush to the mess shack and quick retirement to the sleeping tents. The very elements which make the filming and acting difficult have also put a fine stamp of realism upon the picture as thus far made.

The setting for "Barbara Worth," has had plenty of its own drama and tragic episode. Five miles from camp, out on the dry lake bed, stands a buggy, and beside it the skeleton of a horse.

Here, an old prospector, driving miles for supplies, was recently caught in a rain storm. He died, bogged down in the cement-like mud, in trying to ride his second horse to safety. The desert has other skeletons, too.

Up the canyons across the lake bed like certain Piute Indians, whose guns are notched for white men slain. And in the movie camp, working as extra players, are members of two factions in an old sheepmen's war for precious waterholes—the feud held in abeyance now.

Constance Talmadge, having dutifully performed all the chores of screen success, having laid aside a million dollars for a rainy day, and having recently married the well-to-do Capt. William Alastair Mackintosh, is now flirting with the thought of retiring from motion pictures.

Contract obligations with First National demand completion of two more pictures. After that Constance will snap her fingers at routine, working only when and if she feels impelled.

And meantime, on a three-months honeymoon in Europe, she will get a foretaste of the leisure she craves. Leisure which, some of her intimates suggest, may contemplate the rearing of a family, once all definite ties with film production schedules are severed.

His Wishes, Too

Capt. Mackintosh, who won the sprightly and popular comedienne in a whirlwind courtship against a field of devoted Hollywood swains, has been obviously impatient of studio demands upon her time. And, although he has placed no obstacle in the path of her future pictorial activities, his wish is to make home life primary. In this the twain are of accord.

Her husband's gain of Mrs. Mackintosh's exclusive time will be proportionate loss of the blond Miss Talmadge's effervescent presence to the movie working world. Vivacious, jocular, whimsical, irrepressible in gaiety, Constance has been a magnet of attraction on the camera set or at social gatherings.

Best Dancer

Scores of admirers accounted her the best dancing partner in Hollywood. She has a flattering and genuine way of calling everyone by his first name. She takes life and her work, and her pet aversion is temperamental display.

Unlike her sister, Norma, who never indulges social diversions while making a picture, Constance mixes as much play as possible with her work. Unlike Norma again. Constance insists on driving her own auto. She likes to paddle her own canoe, with a sort of blithe abandon, yet not without a balancing dignity.

During her honeymoon, Constance is to be shown the pomps and glories of the old world in which her husband was reared, he having been one time equerry to the Princess Beatrice of Spain, aide to the viceroy of Bombay, captain of a Scottish regiment, and being still an intimate of English nobility.

Coming to notice first as the mountain girl in Griffiths' "Intolerance," Constance Talmadge gained screen distinction in a dozen pictures released by First National. These have returned her a million dollars at the age of 26—handsome recompense for the saucy good nature and unfailing good will she has dispensed via the films.

New York recently gave a warm welcome to F. W. Murnau, motion picture director of "The Last Laugh," and other widely known foreign productions, who has come to America to make a series of pictures.

A dinner was given in Mr. Murnau's honor at the Ritz-Carlton with George Henry Payne, tax collector, presiding. Among the speakers were former Senator Charles A. Towne, William Fox, Arthur Brisbane, Judge Daniel F. Cohalan, and C. C. Pettijohn.

Speeder Brought Here for Trial

Gustov Leonhart, 37, Venice man, was arrested in Orange county several weeks ago, charged with speeding his automobile at 48 miles an hour. He was given a ticket and told to appear here on a certain date.

Leonhart did not appear, so yesterday, State Officers Yoder and Hurd went after him and brought him to jail.

He probably will be taken to San Juan Capistrano late today for the purpose of trying him on a charge of failure to appear and on the speed charge.

Mesa Youth Gets Speed Sentence

John Yeargan, 21, Costa Mesa youth, entered the Orange county jail last night to spend five days for speeding.

He was sentenced yesterday in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court.

Yeargan was arrested on April 17 by State Officer Vaughn and charged with speeding 50 miles an hour. He first was scheduled to appear in court on April 23.

Usefulness is the rent we pay for our room on this earth—many of us are heavily in arrears.

It can never be said too often that, while life is our supremest possession, it is also our sternest test.

WALL ST. JOURNAL

NEW YORK, July 22.—Stocks suffered further drastic declines in today's late trading after scoring some improvement in the morning dealings. Rallying tendencies were in evidence at the opening, due to a better feeling rgarding the French situation which was rflected in a rebound of more than ten points in francs.

However, the recovery in the strike market was checked around noon by the reourrence of urgent selling in Steel, General Motors, Hudson and other industrial shares, which led the recent advance.

Sentiment regarding the rails was bullish because of the highly favorable character of the June earnings report which have thus far come to light.

However, this class of stock was hit by the general disposition shown in trading circles to retire from the market until the corrective processes were completed and good sized recessions took place in various representative carrier shares.

CHICAGO BD. OF TRADE

CHICAGO, July 22.—It was a day of heavy liquidation on the Chicago Board of Trade with all grains closing at levels of those yesterday.

Wheat was under pressure early in the day because of the change in the weather condtions, the weak Liverpool cables, bearish Canadian news and the increasing volume of the Southwestern movement. Losses of 1⅞ to 2⅛ cents were recorded at thec lose.

Corn closed from 1¼ to 2 cents lower because of the better weather conditions now prevailing.

Oats gained on buying early in the day but sank with wheat and corn to close unchanged to ½ cent lower.

Lard was 10c off and ribs were unchanged.

THESE are the two most essential factors in every investment. Without them, the investment is not worth considering. Neither can these two factors be separated.

WITHOUT SAFETY an Investment that proves profitable, rare as such things are, is merely a lucky gamble.

WITHOUT PROFIT an Investment that is safe is just the same as hiding gold away in a vault.

THE accomplishment of BOTH SAFETY and PROFIT is chiefly a matter of information. Complete knowledge about any security will PROTECT ANY INVESTOR.

FINANCIAL APPRAISERS, INC., offers a service to investors which assures them prompt, accurate, complete information about securities and the companies issuing them.

COURTS MAY DECIDE DEMPSEY'S OPPONENT

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

The championship golf courses of the future will pay more and more attention to the rough, according to the views of George Sargent, presdent of the Professional Golfers' association, who is the professional at the Scioto Country club, where the open championship was held this year.

Sargent said after the tournament that he believe dthat the tall waving prairie grass such as is found at Scioto had put a proper premium upon accuracy and that the game was improved because players could not afford to zigzag all over the course in an effort to gain tremendous distance on their drives.

Heretofore the movement in golf architecture has been toward traps and more traps. But the traps left golf almost too much a matter of luck. A player could put his tee shot far to the right or left and from semi-rough with the proper breaks reach the tee on his second shot.

But if the rough is deep, even the best players are penalized. The stars in the open tournament found that this rough was something they were unused to and in consequence there were many derelictions.

Whether the average golfer, "the duffer" and the beginner will like the innovation is doubtful. Already the courses are too much trapped, too highly bunkered for the most of us. It takes a lot of the enjoyment out of the game to cater to the tastes of the golfing notables.

The same situation may soon present itself in golf as in billiards. In the latter game the professionals soon reached the point where they would never miss. Then someone invented the balkline at 18.2 inches from the rail and a new technique had to be learned.

By now, however, 18.2 science is so highly developed that players are beginning to run 500 shots at one time, and te experts are discussing new methods to slow down the game.

But this analogy is not perfect, since the poorer billiard players can pay no attention to the balk while poor golfers must face the traps, bunkers and rough, whether they want to or not.

HELEN'S RETURN

There's some doubt, it seems, whether Helen Wills is engaged, but certainly she is slamming tennis balls around again. Here she is at Forest Hills, Long Island, about to paste one in her first practice since her appendicitis operation.

WEINERT WINS ON FOUL: HOLD UP BOUT PURSE

LOS ANGELES, July 22—Seth Strelinger, chairman of the State Boxing commission, today ordered state licenses of persons connected with the "Chuck" Wiggins-Charlie Weinert main event at the Olympic auditorium last night, held up.

Pending a thorough investigation the fighters also will be withheld. o last night's bout the purses of Both Weinert and Wiggins were to have received in the neighborhood of $2200 for their share of the gate. It is probable that this money will be forfeited to the state.

The chairman's drastic action followed unsatisfactory schowing of the fighters in their bout which ended in the fourth round when Weinert was awarded the decision on a foul. The bout was a scheduled ten-round affair.

Wiggins and Wienert are probably through fighting for California fans. If not they should be. Their weird exhibition ended in the fourth round when Weinert was given the decision on a foul.

Both fighters were guilty of low punches. Weinert started to hit low when the gong rang and four times his blows landed below the belt. Wiggins carried the fight to Weinert in the first round and outscored him. The second and third rounds went to Weinert. In the fourth round Weinert was flagrantly guilty of many low punches and the referee cautioned him. Wiggins took up where Weinert left off and the referee awarded the fight to Weinert when the latter sunk to the floor after a particularly low punch.

Everett Strong took the decision in a ten-round semi-windup with Billy Atkinson. It was a mauling and slugging match with Strong's superior skill deciding the affair. Joe Pimenthal won the curtain raiser by knocking out Tom Lecuyer in the fourth round. Jack Roper defeated Orlando Raneri in a tough six-round special bout.

FOREIGN STARS SEEK WOMEN'S TENNIS TITLE

NEW YORK, July 22.—All hope of getting Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, the French tennis queen, to visit the United States this summer and play in the woman's national tennis championship was abandoned when she broke down at Wimbledon.

That hope, it might be remarked in passing, was never any too lively even if she did tell the writer in Paris that she had no objection to playing in the United States and hadn't made up her mind finally about her summer plans after Wimbledon.

There is no doubt that Mlle. Lenglen was ill at Wimbledon and in no condition to play. What brought on her breakdown offers a field for argument but there is no doubt that she couldn't continue. She is, of course, a great actress but all the acting and all the theatrical makeup could not make her look as thoroughly worn out as she was at Wimbledon.

While a second visit of Mlle. Lenglen to this country, with the prospect of another battle with Miss Helen Wills, would be the greatest drawing card that could be arranged for Forest Hills, the national woman's championship this year will not be without features.

Dutch Girl Coming

Mlle. "Katrinka" Bouman, the pretty young Holland champion, told the writer at Wimbledon that she was going to play at Forest Hills and Senorita d'Alvarez, the dazzling young Spanish champion, said she hoped to get over this year. Mrs. Kathlene McKane Godfrey, the British star, also wants to play at Forest Hills but she said the decision would have to be made by "friend husband."

If Senorita d'Alvarez (who pronounces her name delvarey) comes to Forest Hills, American fans will see something that probably will cause them to forget Mlle. Lenglen both as a player and a personality.

She is strikingly beautiful girl with all the mannerisms and traits of a Spanish girl of the pictures. She is a great showwoman even more so than Mlle. Lenglen, as she puts herself over without any of the affectation and the forced manner of the French star. She has clothes and wears them like a mannequin and she speaks five languages, all of which she sometimes uses in expressing herself when a shot refuses to follow orders.

As a tennis player she is just as much of a picture. She has the grace and speed of a cat, a dashing smashing style of attack and a pace in her strokes almost as fast as that of Miss Wills.

May Be Champion

Many critics, prominent among them being Miss Mary K. Browne, captain of the American team, believes she is certain to develop into a world's champion and some of the gossips around Wimbledon said it was the fear of her that brought on the unfortunate breakdown of the French Queen.

"She has the prettiest and best strokes I have ever seen and her forehand is nearer that of Billy Johnston's than any player has in the game," Miss Browne said.

Mlle. Bouman has a lot of personality and good looks but she hasn't the fire, dash and color of the Spanish star, due no doubt to the difference in racial characteristics. Mlle. Bouman is also a great player, one with the virile style of game that appeals so strongly to Americans.

They are without doubt two of the most promising players in the game and Miss Wills has others in her way to a world's championship than Mlle. Lenglen.

Some fear was expressed around Wimbledon that her sudden rise to fame and the glory that is attached to "the belle of Wimbledon" might spoil Senorita d'Alvarez but her friends say she is too level headed to be turned by adulation.

California Ball Team Off for U. S.

HONOLULU, July 22. — The University of California baseball team is homeward bound from its successful Hawaiian invasion.

The team sailed on the Liner Matsonia leaving Noel Lenahan, an infielder, behind. Lenahan will play on the Elks Honolulu team. Jack Nounnan, crack Bear hurler, plans returning to Hawaii in time to join the Asahis, a team composed mostly of Japanese, for their tour of Japan which begins August 23.

The Bears won 18 of the 20 games played in Hawaii.

Brea to Have New Indoor Ball Park

BREA, July 22.—The possibilities for a Brea Indoor Baseball league looked brighter today with the announcement from McCluer Senn that the high school trustees had acted favorably on a request for the use of the new high school athletic field.

Jimmie Leach has been named by the local Legion post as captain and manager of the team. He announces that practice will begin within a few days.

Piping 'Em Off

Babe Ruth's home run in the first inning, his twenty-ninth of the season, failed to lead the Yanks to victory and the White Sox took the first game 4-3. Koenig, however, redeemed himself for his recent poor showing by hitting a homer in the second game and the Yanks evened it up by winning 5-4.

The Browns took Boston for two games 11-1 and 7-4. A slugging fest in thefirst game swept the Browns far ahead and the rest was easy.

The Tigers and Senators also divided honors in a double bill, Detroit taking thefirst, 7-6 and the Senators the second, 10-7.

The Robins came back in the second game with the Pirates after losing a stiff contest in the first. The second game was 6-2. Petty pitched a masterly game in the opener, allowing four hits and a run, but Pittsburgh won, 1 to 0.

The Reds trimmed the Braves, 6-4, in the only other National league game.

By defeating the Mackmen 6-0, the Cleveland Indians tied the Athletics for second place, while Chicago dropped into fourth place by splitting with the Yanks.

GAS COMPANY CAPTURES WILD GAME FROM LEE'S FOUNTAIN; ALLENDER, WINDLER HIT HARD

In a wild and wooly, free-hitting tiff at Lincoln park last night, the Southern Counties Gas company defeated Lee's Fountain, 12 to 10, and ruined whatever hopes the Soda-Jerkers had of finishing the season second in the Santa Ana Indoor Baseball league. Both clubs pounded out 12 hits.

The Fountaineers, without the services of Jimmy Mansfield, Merrill and Benedict, went into the contest with only eight players. The Gas company used only nine men.

A five-run rally in the last of the eighth round gave the "gas-house" gang its victory. The Fountaineers, thanks to a batting spree in the fifth, were leading until this wild orgy.

Fred Windler came out of his batting slump to knock out a homer and a brace of doubles for the Soda-Jerkers and Sid Allender connected safely four out of five times for the Gas company. Ed Daley and Carl Lacy made three hits apiece.

An error and a pass to Walbridge, a hit by Daley and some wild pitches gave the Lee's two in the first. They counted two in the fourth on singles by E. Daley and Lacy and a double by Windler. A walk to Norton, Belcher's triple, a pass to Walbridge, a fielder's choice, an error by Nelson, and Windler's double gave the Fountaineers four more in the fifth. Windler's homer came in the sixth. Lacy made the final Lee run in the eighth.

The Southern Counties Gas company scored three in the opener on hits by Turner and Allender, a fielder's choice, an error and a wild pitch; two more in the second on hits by Roehm, Allender and W. Nelson and a single digit in the fourth on successive bingles by Turner and Allender. The Gassers pickedup one in the seventh on a walk to Bandick and two errors by Lacy and then proceeded to cinch the wild affair with a five run outbreak in the eighth. Allender started things with his fourth hit of the game. Then came an error by L. Daley, W. Nelson's double, Fipps' single, two errors by Jones and a pass to Roehm.

Tiernans Meet Excelsiors Here Tonight

Ready to wage an uphill fight for the championship of the Santa Ana Indoor Baseball league, the Tiernan Typewriter company goes against the Excelsior Creamery company in one of the season's most important conflicts at Lincoln park tonight.

The Tiernans must win from the Milk-Dispensers to remain in the race which closes next week. If the Kids dispose of the Excelsiors and then defeat the Blauers next Wednesday, they can finish the season tied with the Grocers. A reversal tonight would eliminate them from the title running.

RICKARD SETS SEPTEMBER 11 OR 18 AS DATE

Chicago Promoters Claim Previous Contract with Champ to Meet Wills

By EDWARD C. DERR
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO, July 22.—Jack Dempsey is going to defend his world's heavyweight championship in Chicago in September but before he does any actual fighting there is likely to be another fight—a legal conflict in the courts to determine whether his opponent will be Gene Tunney, the white contender, or Harry Wills, the negro giant.

If Tex Rickard and his associates win the courts, Dempsey's opponent will be Tunney; if the Chicago Coliseum club wins, it will be Wills that Dempsey must face.

Rickard, as it appears now, has the upper hand and it is virtually certain he will be able to go through with his plans for a Dempsey-Tunney match, September 11 or September 18. The New York promoter has the decided advantage of having Dempsey on his side of the argument.

But B. C. Clements, president of the Coliseum club, insists he holds a perfectly sound contract with Dempsey wherein the champion must meet Harry Wills in Chicago before risking his title with any other challenger. Clements asserts he will take his case to the courts if necessary to stop Rickard's plans for a Dempsey-Tunney fight.

The argument centers around the contract Dempsey signed last year with Floyd Fitzsimmons, the Indiana promoter. Fitzsimmons backed out of his plans to stage a Dempsey-Wills match and transferred his contract to the Coliseum club. That much is admitted.

But Rickard, Dempsey and even Fitzsimmons insist that this contract is void because the Coliseum club failed to post $100,000 March 25. Clements answers that with the statement that no money was due March 25 and that his contract is still good.

DEMPSEY GLAD BIG BOUT NOW ACTUALLY 'ON'

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 22.—"Everything is hotsy totsy with me. I know where I'm going to fight and when. The only thing I'm sorry about is that it isn't next week."

Thus with boyish enthusiasm Jack Dempsey today hailed the announcement that he would defend the world's heavyweight title against Gene Tunney in September.

As to the remaining obstacle—the claim that Dempsey signed a contract to fight Harry Wills in Chicago in September—Dempsey says "pooh pooh" and a couple of "bahs."

Dempsey says there is no such contract.

"The first contract I made with Floyd Fitzsimmons and the people of South Bend was voided because they did not raise the money," the champion said.

"Last year 'Fitz' came to Los Angeles with the offer of Chicago backing. The old contract was voided and the terms incorporated in a new one, but they did not have the $250,000 to pay, so I consented to sign and place the contract in escrow until they delivered the money.

"They never paid a dime of it at any time, let alone at the time called for, and the bank never turned over my agreement from the escrow holding."

SUICIDES CHARGED TO ACE OF SPADES

BERLIN, July 22. — A cult of mystics preying chiefly upon women is being sought by the police in connection with a score of "ace of spades" suicides.

The cult in its reputed dens of mystery amid gorgeous draperies and the odor of incense is said to work with decks of playing cards. The ace of spades displays the print of a black devil, the emblem of doom.

The laying of cards is conducted with great ceremony. At the first sitting, the ace of spades never fails to turn up.

Driven to distraction, superstitious women who come to the cult for advice are told that on payment of fees running up to 5000 marks, they can get more "layings" to chase away "the dark Mephistopheles.' ' Some women pay and the devil never again appears. Fright drives others to suicide.

Fragementary secrets of the cult were discolsed recently by a well-to-do business man, who found his wife hanging dead in a closet on his return home.

The same night a girl 20 years old leaped from Potsdamer bridge into the Spree canal, shrieking "Mephisto!" "Mephisto!" She drowned before aid could reach her.

NEWS FROM ORANGE COUNTY TOWNS

WIDENING OF BALBOA STREET IS COMMENCED

BALBOA, July 22.—Widening of Central avenue in Balboa from B street to Palm avenue by the removal of curbing now standing between the pavement and the Pacific Electric tracks is expected to greatly relieve traffic on the street, according to a report from the office of City Engineer Paul Kressly today.

'Work of widening the street is now under way. The curbing is being removed and a gravel and oil shoulder put on the side of the street near the Pacific Electric tracks. Central avenue in Balboa is very narrow from Palm avenue to B street. It heretofore has barely been possible for a car to pass another machine parked on the side of the street. The narrow street made conditions for pedestrians who did not look before stepping from behind a machine.

The improvements are expected to add materially to the safety of both motorists and pedestrians in Balboa.

La Habra Car Demolished In Accident

ORANGE, July 22.—Glaring headlights caused J. Chauncey Huscroft, North Glassell street, to drive his car into a machine driven by J. Garcia, of La Habra, at an intersection on Center street, La Habra, Tuesday evening about 10 o'clock. According to reports on file with the La Habra police, Garcia's car was practically demolished in the crash, while that of Huscroft's was damaged only slightly. Garcia was cut and bruised slightly.

ACCIDENT BODY'S WORK EXPLAINED

ANAHEIM, July 22.—John A. McGilvery, chairman of the state industrial accident commission, appeared as the principal speaker at the regular luncheon meeting of the Anaheim Kiwanis club yesterday, speaking on "Workmen's Compensation From a Different Angle."

"Accident prevention is purely a business proposition, for the injured employe in California is entitled to a compensation of 38 1-2 per cent of his wage loss and the employer must bear the balance," said Mr. McGilvery. "It has often been asserted that the state cannot successfully operate a business in competition to private business because of political interference. So far as this particular state activity is concerned, I can say that in the three years that I have been chairman of the industrial accident commission, there has been no political interference and the affairs of the commission have been run on a strictly business basis."

BOLSA

BOLSA, July 22.—The funeral of Francis Marion Pryor, well known Bolsa rancher, was largely attended on Saturday afternoon, when friends gathered at the Winbigler Funeral home to pay their last respects to one who has been a resident of this and adjoining communities for many years.

The Rev. A. J. Hurst, pastor of the Christian church in Huntington Beach, of which Mr. Pryor had been a member almost from the time of its organization, preached the sermon and the music was furnished by Mrs. Herron and Mr. Marshall, both members of the church choir. Arthur Worthy, of Long Beach; Conrad Worthy, of Huntington Beach; Hayden Pryor, of Fresno; John Murphy, of Los Angeles, and Hugo Lamb, of Santa Ana.

Miss Mignon Oldfield, of Garden Grove, has been chosen from among the numerous applicants for the position of primary teacher in the Bolsa school for the coming school term, it is understood. TO BUILD 1500 MILES OF TOLL CABLE IN 1926

The construction of toll cable lines between important points in the Bell system is a feature of modern telephone plant development which makes for better service, declared Earl S. Morrow, local manager of the Pacific Telephone company today.

The open wire pole line with its many cross-arms frequently suffers damage from sleet and wind storms. It has not been an uncommon thing to have miles of pole lines laid low by storm violence or the weight of accumulated ice on the wires, and when this occurs it sometimes costs the telephone companies way up in the millions to reconstruct the lines and to restore the service.

Toll cable line construction minimizes the danger from storms and insures against interruption of the service by the unruly elements. More than 1000 miles of toll cable were placed in service in the Bell system during 1925. This included the completion of the New York-Chicago cable route and of about half of the Chicago-St. Louis cable route.

This year it is expected that more than 1500 miles of toll cable will be placed in service. The program for 1926 includes extensions to the cable system and the addition of relief cables on existing routes.

The expansion of the toll cable system has been made possible by the application of the repeater or current amplifier to the loaded long distance circuits. The repeater permits the use of cables in place of open-wire construction and allows the use of smaller gauge wire.

At the beginning of 1925 there were about 5500 repeaters in service in the Bell system; 2500 repeaters were added in 1925 and it is expected that about 5000 repeaters will be installed this year.

MASCOT OF ARCTIC RETIRES FROM SEA

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., July 21.—With a record behind her that would discourage any conscientious mascot, Niccarowra, survivor of two tragic Arctic expeditions, has retired definitely from the sea, and is living in quiet and seclusion, awaiting the end that must come—even to cats.

Nicky is the houseguest of David Maurer, father of Fred W. Maurer, who was lost in a dash to reach help, when his party, the second Wrangell island expedition, was stranded in the Arctic in 1923.

Picked up as a scrawny black kitten by a sailor, 14 years ago, Nicky prospered personally, but the ominous portent of a black cat clung to her.

She was mascot on the ill-fated Karluk, which was wrecked in an ice pack in Camden bay in 1913. She was rescued from the Karluk by a sailor and taken by Maurer on the flight across the dreary snowfields to Wrangell island in a fur bag on his dog sled.

On the way she made friends with Mugpi, a 3-year-old Eskimo girl. Later Mugpi and her parents were lost at sea. Maurer and Nicky were rescued with others of their party in 1914.

Nine years later at the time of the second Wrangell island expedition, after Maurer was given up for dead, Nicky was brought back to her master's home here.

Costs Money to Campaign In H. B., Man, 73, Discovers

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 22.—W. S. Sheffield, 73, of 303 First street, this city, was fined $25 yesterday by Jack Landell, acting city recorder, when he pleaded guilty to a charge of being intoxicated. Sheffield told Judge Jack Landell that he was "campaigning for three good men who are candidates for office." Sheffield paid the fine.

ORANGE, July 22.—The boys and girls in the health camp in Trabuoco canyon will have some new supplies, it was decided by the local Lions club yesterday noon at the Hotel Rochester. A resolution to purchase tooth paste and brushes, as well as other needed supplies, was passed by the group.

COAST GUARD CUTTER TRIAL MOVED TO L. B.

LAGUNA BEACH, July 22.—The court-martial trying Boatswain John DeZeeuw, of the Coast Guard cutter 259 on charges of falsifying his log and to conduct detrimental to discipline, was convened today at Laguna Beach, where members of the court-martial jury are going over the scene of the capture of the rum boat SKS.

Green bay, near Laguna Beach, is supposed to be the scene of the capture of the rum running fishing boat SKS, captured, according to the prosecution, May 20, and according to the defense, May 21.

Three Venice police officers yesterday testified that the Coast Guard cutter was off Venice searching for the body of Aimee Semple McPherson the afternoon of May 20. The prosecution, however, declared that the coast cutter 259 had sufficient speed to make the trip from Venice to Laguna Beach and still arrive between 5 and 6 p. m.

Harold Dowd, a Laguna Beach fisherman, previously testified that he saw the cutter off Laguna Beach early in the morning of May 21. The prosecution also introduced the official log of the cutter as evidence before the court-martial.

The defense still has more than a dozen witnesses to be heard, according to reports. Six other members of the crew of the cutter 259 are to be tried after DeZeeuw.

NEWPORT CHIEF GIVEN GOLD BADGE

NEWPORT BEACH, July 22.—David L. Adams, chief of the local police force, didn't have to serve this city for 25 years to be presented with a fine gold badge in honor of his work.

Adams came to Newport after 25 years of service on the Los Angeles police force. He was captain of police in Los Angeles, and after his 25 years' service, was presented with a fine gold badge.

Adams attended an American Legion meeting Tuesday night. One of the Legionnaires, H. H. Williamson, also a city trustee, offered to take the captain home following the meeting. When the two men, accompanied by City Recorder W. A. Leonard, arrived at the Adams' home, Adams invited the city trustee and the judge to come in and inspect his home, recently purchased.

Adams opened the door of his home to find about 30 prominent citizens gathered to surprise him. Dr. Conrad Richter, chairman of the board of city trustees, put the chief of police at ease with a short talk. Other members of the board of trustees also commended the work of Adams.

The second surprise for the chief came when Williamson presented him with a diamond studded gold badge bearing the inscription of "Chief of Police, Newport Beach."

Stabilization Through Consolidations

THE recent consolidations in the oil industry involving the combination of California properties with those of eastern corporations should contribute to stabilization.

The opinion is expressed that these consolidations will result in the California supply of crude being removed as a liability to the industry. There will also follow a closer co-ordination of consumption and production bringing about, in the end, conservation.

One of the important consolidations was the Tide Water Oil Company and the Associated Oil Company, creating a world-wide marketing organization combined with potential sources of production and facilities for refining. The Tide Water Oil Company's history dates back to 1888 and the Associated Oil Company to 1901.

The management and organization of the Tide Water Associated Oil Company is outstanding for its ability and efficiency. This, coupled with the operating economies and strengthened position in the distribution of products in a competitive market, through the consolidation, contribute stability necessary for conservative investment.

UP TO THE GOVERNOR

The San Bernardino Sun declares that the injecting of politics into the state school system by Governor Richardson's appointees on the state board of education may become one of the issues of the present campaign. From one end of the state to the other is being voiced the vigorous protest against the refusal, for the admitted reasons of politics, to confirm two appointments of heads of state teachers' colleges.

The Sun further calls attention to the fact that two newspapers, the Fresno Republican and the San Francisco Chronicle, hitherto listed as not unfriendly to Richardson, have resented action taken by the state board of education. Closing, the Sun says:

"Of course the newspapers opposing Governor Richardson are losing no opportunity to call attention to this effort to drag the schools into politics, but when newspapers that are either neutral or friendly deal with the situation in such drastic manner, Governor Richardson is rapidly being forced into a position where he must either repudiate his four appointees or by silence give approval to their actions. It is openly charged that the governor was in sympathy with the action of the board, for it had previously taken identical action."

GROWING FOR THE FAIR

Here, there and everywhere over Orange county are farmers who are watching their orchards and their vegetables with keen eyes. They are sizing things up preparatory to entering fancy products in the Orange County Fair that is to be held in September.

Poultrymen are giving their flocks unusual care, with the hope that the feathered creatures will respond in such a way that they will be at their very best when the big tents at the new fair grounds at West Orange are opened up to receive the throngs of visitors.

There is a reason for beginning now for the selection of exhibits. That reason is that competition is bound to be keen, and there may be but a shade between the winner and the next best. Orange county with all its excellent opportunities for the development of show products of all sorts can have a wonderful agricultural show, and that, we are assured, is exactly what we can expect this year.

Plans for the show are well along. Departments have been arranged for a great variety of interesting exhibitions. Opportunity will be given to thousands of residents to have a part in the showing of products or handiwork.

THE LEAK IN THE BOAT

Vernon Tenold of Lake Norden, S. D., aged 14, adventuring on the lake with his younger brother in an old boat they had discovered, and being blown out into the lake in a high wind, without oars, faced a real problem when the water poured in through a hole in the bottom. But by the time there were four inches of water in the boat, Vernon mastered the situation. He thrust his finger into the hole, and held it there until the boat had drifted clear across the lake, saving the lives of both.

Vernon had never heard of the Dutch boy and the "leak in the dike," either. Thus history repeats itself.

This, however, need not be a signal for boys in general to begin stopping leaks with fingers. It would not only deprive dike-builders, boat-builders and plumbers of honest employment, but would make a lot of fingers unnecessarily sore.

An analytical view of the problem leads to the conclusion that while both of these finger-plugging boys were heroic, neither was any too clever. Almost anything would do as well as a finger to stop a leak, and save pain and leave the hero free to do something else. A stick or stone in the dike, a handkerchief or piece of shirt in the boat, would doubtless have served the purpose admirably. Cotton is standard material for making boats tight.

Still, if we're going to be so practical, heroism will go into a decline.

LIGHT-HEARTED BILLIONAIRE

John D. Rockefeller at 87 years may not be described exactly by the old formula of "hale and hearty," but he does seem to be just about the same as he was 20 years ago.

He gets out and plays golf every day. Just how good or how strenuous a game he plays may be a matter for dispute, but at least he goes through the motions of playing, which is more than 99 per cent of the men at his age would do.

The important physical fact is that he lives an outdoor life.

Also he keeps up his spirits. His state of mind, perhaps, is more important than his golf and his quiet enjoyment in being outdoors. His physician says he expects to live to the age of 100, and temperamentally he seems suited to such an achievement. His mind has more to do with it than his body.

The most remarkable thing about Rockefeller is that he bears so lightly the burden of billionairedom. The tradition that wealth brings ease is false. Most very wealthy men are crushed by their wealth. Rockefeller, giving away much, yet retaining far more than Carnegie did, gives the impression of a man who hasn't a care in the world. Thus he sets a good example to a lot of people, big and little, who worry more about their money after getting it than they did about making it in the first place.

FEWER DETOURS ALLOWED

Good news for the motor tourist! Some states are adopting a definite policy of preventing detours. Engineers and contractors are finding that it is by no means so inevitable as they used to think, that traffic should be sent by the long way around every time a piece of construction or repair work is going on.

One state highway director issues explicit orders that where new bridges are being constructed, temporary bridges shall be built or the new bridges so located that traffic may continue crossing the old structures while the new ones are going up. Likewise in working on highways, half of the paving strip is to be built or repaired at one time, leaving the other side open for a single line of traffic.

"It costs the traveling public much more to go around a detour than the extra expense to the state to carry on the work and maintain traffic over the road at the same time," says the director. Doubtless this is true in a majority of cases. The policy might well be adopted in all local as well as state work.

Circumspection Paraded

Oakland Tribune

A commencement address decidedly out of the ordinary was that delivered before the graduating class of a middle-western college the other day by a gentleman who evidently cherishes a strong grudge against illusions and airy fancies of every sort.

"Stern reality!" that is what he preached and lest his youthful hearers might blame dyspepsia for the sour outlook on life, the orator had recourse to figures prepared by a life insurance company on the average economic status of men at different ages.

"We will take 100 youths who are now 25 years of age," began the commencement speaker. "They have an ambition to gain wealth and each sets a goal of $1,000,000 for himself." Do these youths reach this goal? The speaker answered his own question by marshalling the statistics alluded to.

"If we call the roll 35 years from this date, when each of the youths is 60 years old, we find that thirty-six do not answer the roll at all. Of the sixty-four remaining two have as much as $10,000; two more have between $1,000 and $5,000; four have something, but it consists largely of life insurance policies that are not collectable until after death. The remaining fifty-six are dependable upon someone else for their bread and butter."

Now these hard facts may every one of them be true. One's experiences here in California, at least, seem to belie them. But in various journals similar figures are quoted from time to time with the idea of encouraging thrift and steadiness of purpose.

It is fitting that youths about to plunge into the world be advised by their wiser elders in order that they might be more circumspect. Yet to have such facts paraded before them on a joyous occasion savors somewhat of the ill-timed.

And, anyhow, many of the 100 youths perhaps have not set a million dollar goal for themselves. For all do not march to the beat of the same drummer.

To Reform Procedure

Pasadena Star-News

Legislatures of all the states will be asked and urged to enact into law some twenty proposals of the National Crime Commission in the interests of uniformity of criminal procedure, as well as obtaining swifter, simpler and more just criminal trials. The recommendations were placed before the American Bar association, in convention at Denver, and undoubtedly will be endorsed by that great and influential organization.

The reformative recommendations made are quite similar to those formulated by the California Crime Commission, headed by Major Walter K. Tuller, of Los Angeles, whose recommendations will go before the California Legislature at the next session.

The National Crime Commission makes some twenty proposals for betterment in criminal procedure, two of which are of especial interest and importance, namely: One, to permit a trial judge to comment upon the evidence; the other, permitting verdicts—except in capital cases—by five-sixths of the jury, instead of requiring unanimous verdict. This latter would prevent many mistrials, through "hung" juries.

The need of reform in crime procedure—in administering criminal laws—long has been felt. It is admitted and deplored by the ablest jurists and lawyers in the country, including Chief Justice Taft, of the United States Supreme Court. With the American Bar association taking cognizance of and sponsoring definite suggestions of reform and presenting such proposals with urgent recommendations to various state legislatures, the outlook is favorable for remedial legislation in the near future.

Sergeant York Not Idle

San Francisco Chronicle

About seven years ago, Sergeant Alvin C. York came back from overseas, where he had captured 132 German soldiers in a body, single handed. He accepted the medals and cheers of the crowds with diffidence and vanished into the fastnesses of the Tennessee hills, whence the war had yanked him to opportunities for glory.

Since then we have heard little about Sergeant York except an occasional reference to prove that it is the circumstances and not the man who wins to fame. But now it appears that he has been busy. With the same diligence he showed in dragooning the enemy, he has herded financial backers into a scheme to give the boys and girls of Tennessee a chance for industrial education. And only the other day he broke ground for the Alvin C. York Industrial Institute.

While our friends the evolutionists may regret that the pupils of the institute will lack certain instruction—Tennessee and Sergeant York being out of sympathy with the late Mr. Darwin, and the relationship of man and monkey being a dispensable factor in industrial training—the boys and girls will get something they need. Education is needed in the hills.

LIFE SPAN INCREASING

It was noted that while the rates generally show a downward trend, that of cancer was decidedly upward.

The same is true of heart disease and diabetes. The trend of death rates from all causes combined, including homicides, suicides and deaths due to accidents is downward. If we exclude the year 1918, the year of the great influenza epidemic, we see that the death rate is dropping rather rapidly. This means that the span of human life is increasing.

At least 16 years has been added to this life span in the United States within the last three-quarters of a century. A child born today may be expected to reach the age of 56 years, while the child born in 1850 had a life expectancy of only 40 years.

This increase in the span of life is seen in all countries that have adopted modern standards of living and of sanitation, and which have organized health departments that are functioning effectively. It is not seen in those countries which do not have these adjuncts to civilization.

How does the death rate of your city compare with that of others?

Looks Like the Joke's on Us

In the Old Home Town

Kansas City Star

Isaiah Green was the only "Vermonter" in the Old Home Town. Isaiah came to the town at the close of the Civil War, in which he was a soldier, and despite his hatchet face, his unusually big nose and his broad Yankee drawl, he won the heart of pretty Hattie Dalrymple, and married her. They had two children, a boy and a girl. Edward Hamilton, named for Colonel Dalrymple, and Armilla Margaret, called, no doubt, after some maiden aunt or grandmother of Isiah's. Isiah was a modest man, notwithstanding the fact that he never was seen in public in any other garb than the blue uniform of the Civil War veteran, the wide-brim, soft hat with the red, white and blue cord, and the bronze button of the G. A. R. Isaiah was not flouting his patriotism, however, for he never otherwise boasted of his war record—which Dr. Strickling maintained was a good one—and he never ran for office on the strength of it.

Those of us who were boys in the Old Home Town of that day regarded Isiah in the light of what would be called in this day, "hard boiled." He would not allow us to play mumble-peg on his blue grass lawn, the most inviting in the town. Neither would he allow us to make a scientific investigation into the life, habits and characteristics of the swarms of bees that he maintained and cultivated in his back yard. We had no desire to work cruelty to the bees, except to try out a theory propounded by Sherman Irish, who insisted that, if we could kidnap the drone bees in the Green swarms and take them over and put them in the bumble bees' nest in the Manning ash barrel, the queen bees of the honey tribes would lead their armies against the bumble bees, and we would see a fight that would not end until every bumble bee was dead. But Isaiah, with a heart as hard as the marble that comes from his old hometown, put his down on that scientific plan of research, and to this day we are in doubt as to the Sherman Irish theory.

Before Isaiah Green gave utterance to any expression of thought, he prefaced it with: "It is my philosophy."

If he wanted to predict rain, he would say: "It is my philosophy that when the leaves turn toward the sun at midday, and there is no dew on the grass in the morning, rain is sure to follow."

Isaiah Green's golden rule was this: "It is my philosophy that, if you treat a man right, he will treat you right."

"It is my philosophy," Isaiah Green would always say in the beginning of his "testimony" at the Methodist class meetings, "it is my philosophy that if a man minds his own business he will have no trouble with his neighbors."

Well, all these thoughts of Isaiah Green have been recalled by the announcement that Edward Hamilton Green, district attorney of one of the eastern cities, is making a drive against lawbreakers, big and little. Recently when "Speck" Baker was in the East he called on Edward Hamilton Green and the first thing the district attorney said to him, after "Speck" had made himself known, was: "It is my philosophy that the boys from the Old Home Town have the first call on my time, no matter how busy I am."

And, later, when they talked of his success as a prosecutor, Edward Hamilton Green said: "It is my philosophy that a lawbreaker is a lawbreaker, whether he's white or black, rich or poor."

Worth While Verse

CHANGELING

He was born on an April day
In a gust of rainy weather;
And we think that an April wind and he
Crept into the house together.
His ears are pointed the tiniest bit
And he looks like a baby faun;
And his rain gray eyes hold flecks of green
That flicker and then are gone.
A fairy child is a precious thing,
But it's hard to make one stay;
And I know that we both should break our hearts
If ever he went away.
In April we have to guard him well;
We lock every window and door,
Lest the wind should come and steal him away
As it carried him in before.

Studying Old Stumps

Scientists are working out a gigantic jig-saw puzzle in the Southwest, first searching over hundreds of square miles of territory for the pieces that Nature has hidden through the centuries.

The story of this fascinating "game" is wrapped up in an announcement just made by the National Geographic society that its research committee has made an additional grant of funds to continue this summer the "Beam Expedition" work under the leadership of Dr. A. E. Douglas of Stewart observatory, University of Arizona.

No one knows the age of the interesting communal dwellings. America's first "apartment houses," that have been unearthed in New Mexico, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society. The largest of these, Pueblo Bonito, in Chaco canyon, has been intensively studied by National Geographic society expeditions during the past six years. Much new information has been gathered in regard to these early Americans from the examples disclosed of their masonry, pottery, baskets and jewelry; but no definite light has been cast on the age of their culture, for they had no calendar. Now this secret seems likely to be found out from the examination of what laymen might consider prosaic old wooden beams that supported the flat roofs of the Bonitans.

Dr. Douglas found some years ago that trees in growing not only leave a ring for each year, but that often the character of the ring denotes the particular year in which it grew. That is, in an unusually moist season an especially wide or well marked ring will be left in all the trees of the region subjected to the unusual conditions. If a living tree 400 years old is cut and a recent characteristic ring identified, other outstanding rings made in the tree's youth can be dated centuries ago. These characteristic marks may be found, in turn, among the most recent rings of an ancient log preserved in a sandbank, and so Nature's calendar may be followed back still farther.

Since the working out of this method the scientists of the National Geographic society's beam expedition have been scouring the southwest for specimens of ancient wood. Some have been discovered in the form of old tree stumps covered centuries ago by the sand and clay washed by some extraordinary storm. Others have been found in Indian pueblos, still in use; and still others in the ruins of ancient structures.

In every case cross-sections have been prepared and microscopic studies made. Many of the specimens, of course, have been found to cover approximately the same period of time; but now and then a lucky find has pushed the earliest known date line of the United States a few decades or generations farther back.

Science has not completed this chronological puzzle, but working from both ends it has fitted piece after piece, steadily narrowing the gap of the unknown. It is hoped that before long trustworthy estimate can be made of the ruins, so fitting America's early civilization into its proper relation to that of the Old World."

Ancient Maya Capital

Carnegie Institution excavators working at the site of the ancient Maya capital of Chichen Itza in northeastern Yucatan, confidently expect to complete the restoration of the "Temple of the Warriors" and the "Northwest Colonnade" before the rainy season sets in when all work of the kind ceases. An unexpected discovery, however, one of surpassing interest to the archaeologist, caused a quick change to be made in plans, so announces Dr. Sylvanus G. Morley, director of the work, who has just reached the United States on his return from Yucatan.

It appears that while examining a column imbedded in a corner of the pyramid which supports the Temple of the Warriors, the excavators discovered evidence of the existence of a beautiful temple of an earlier time which the pyramid builders had incorporated into the structure of the pyramid itself. Upon digging deeper into the pyramid mass it was found that the stone columns of this buried temple comprised feathered serpents decorated in vivid colors of red, yellow, green, and black.

The tops and bottoms of the columns, representing, respectively, the heads and tails of the serpents, consisted of massive stones which had fallen from their original positions and lay buried under the floor of what formerly had been the northern end of the outer hall of the temple. These stones, it should be borne in mind, had been buried in ancient times while the paint on them was still fresh and bright. In consequence the colors were almost as brilliant as the day they were painted, some six or seven centuries ago.

Further digging in the pyramid mass disclosed a side wall of the buried temple which was covered with mural paintings, preserved, likewise, in almost their original condition. These murals were found only after the rainy season had set in. For fear that torrential storms of the next four months might destroy these paintings if they were left exposed, the wall was covered up to await the coming of the next dry season, when a careful investigation will be made of these new aboriginal splendors. Dr. Morley and Mr. E. N. Morris, the latter being in immediate charge of the excavators, anticipate that with the uncovering and restoration of this buried temple new light will be thrown upon an ancient American civilization about which as yet little is known.

Around The World

When Jules Verne sent his imaginary character Phineas Fogg around the world in eighty days, it was part of the game that he could use only such means of transportation as were actually in existence. That is why Verne did not make the record considerably better by using flying machines, which then existed in his imagination, although not in fact.

The record stood for several years, until in 1889 Nellie Bly, a newspaper reporter, was sent out to see whether she could in fact beat the Phineas Fogg record in fiction. She made the trip in seventy-two days, six hours and eleven minutes.

In 1903 Henry Frederick made the trip in fifty-five days. In 1907 Colonel Burnley Campbell did it in forty-one days.. In 1911 Andre Jager-Schmidt, a Paris reporter, cut off a day. In 1913 John Henry Mears established the present record of twenty-five days, twenty-one hours and thirty-four minutes. He used an airplane for one short hop.

Now Morris Titherington, aeronautical engineer, and John Goldstrom, an aviation writer, are on their way around the globe trying to make a new record. They intend to use airplanes wherever they are available for regular passenger transportation. They expect to fly most of the way from Southampton to Peking and Yokohama, where they are to take ship for Vancouver and there resume flying on their way back to New York.

There is little reason why they should fail to make a new round-the-world time record. But they are going to miss a lot of fun by the way. Our own idea would be to take the slowest way and have a chance to see something. —San Francisco Chronicle.

Did You Ever Stop to Think

By Edson R. Waite, Secretary, Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce

THAT if you want to keep shelf-warmers moving out, advertising is your opportunity.

THAT if you want to keep out mail order competition, advertise!

THAT continuous advertising will make your merchandise stand out in such an attractive manner that it will bring buyers your way.

THAT attractive advertising is the link between you and the public; it is the means of making the necessary sales contact.

THAT the amount of business you do is in a great way up to you. Quality, well advertised, means better business.
